RUSSIA TODAY

Who Cuts Whose Throat?

By ALAN HARVEY
Fourth of a Series

MOSCOW (CP)—After all the heavy thinking, one word may explain old Mother Russia.

For years, experts sought to solve the Soviet puzzle. Winston Churchill, in a classic phrase, spoke of a riddle, a mystery, an enigma.

And yet some offer a one-word solution—under-development.

The idea is that this leviathan among lands, despite striking progress in the physical realm, is still politically primitive, still back with the underdeveloped two-thirds of mankind.

Theorists' draw a distinction between Western rule of law and the autocratic, absolutist traditions of the regulated society that is Russia.

After centuries in which freedom, in Tennyson's words, slowly broadened down from precedent to precedent, Europe and North America evolved a sense of compromise, a respect for human values and individual dignity, a tradition of free speaking and tolerated dissent, an instinct for gradual rather than violent development.

Night of Czars

While this was taking place, Rusia endured centuries of isolation, cut off from the West. Under the Tartars and Mongols and during the long night of the Czars, she missed the liberalizing influences of the Reformation and the Renaissance.

For more than two centuries starting in 1240, Russia was a series of principalities within the Asiatic orbit of Genghis Khan, Tamerlane and their descendants. The writer Gorky claimed that physical violence, cruelty and autocracy were a Russian legacy of the Asiatic invasions.

Another event that helped shape modern attitudes was the religious split that brought Russia under the Greek Orthodox Church, with its Byzantine traditions, while the West went the way of Rome.

Rigid, Corrupt

"Blame Byzantium if today one-fourth of the territory of the Soviet Union is closed to outsiders," said a Western diplomat, attributing much of present-day secretiveness to the Orthodox mystique. Historians say the political despotism centred in Constantinople was sustained by a rigid and often corrupt hierarchy.

Russia introduced feudalism about the time the West was getting rid of it. Its 20,000,000 serfs were liberated only in 1861 and the nation was without a professional Bar until 1872.

The theory, in short, is that history holds the key to human conduct.

"Russia is trying to telescope the time machine," a Russian-speaking analyst said. "She is trying to do in years what we did in centuries.

"She follows a zig-zag course, oscillating between relaxation

Ship Recalled

'Bomb' Halts Ferry

NANAIMO (CP) — The government ferry Queen of Tsawwassen returned here Thursday after a phone call to tell authority officials saying there was a bomb on board the ship.

Thirty-three RCMP officers searched the ferry for more than 2½ hours.

The 115 cars aboard were unloaded and searched.

In addition, all foot passengers and every member of the crew had to come ashore.

FULL LOAD

The ferry had a full load.

Next ferry to leave, the Sechelt Queen (formerly the Chinook), could not accommodate all the left-over passengers.

Those left behind sailed for Horseshoe Bay on the Queen of Sidney at 11 p.m.

Beaten-Up Boy Dies In Duncan

A 14-year-old Duncan boy died in hospital last night after being beaten up by two youths five miles outside of Duncan.

The RCMP said Hugh Nesbitt, son of Mrs. Joseph Nesbitt, was found lying on the road at the intersection of Genoa Bay and Maple Bay Roads.

They said according to witnesses the youths jumped from a car, beat the boy, then escaped in the car. Police later questioned two youths in connection with the slaying.

Finn Freezes 'Hot Line'

HELSINKI (Reuters) — A Finnish construction worker drove an excavator through the Moscow-Washington "hot line" Thursday and broke telecommunications.

The worker was clearing ground for a new highway when the cable was cut. The line was repaired in four hours.

It is expected to be ready for service as an emergency link between Moscow and Washington next month.

British Bandits Get Richest Mail Haul

CHEDDINGTON, England (CP) — A gang of masked bandits ambushed a royal mail train Thursday and staged what was believed to be the world's greatest train robbery.

The pre-dawn holdup, in a lonely stretch of the English countryside, gave them a haul which one official said could amount to £1,000,000 ($3,000,000) in cash and registered mail.

Police and postal authorities first estimated the gang at 30 men. Later a police spokesman said it probably numbered about 15.

BRITAIN JOLTED

The brash and brazen robbery jolted Britain with its massive organization and split - second timing.

Postmaster-General Reginald Bevins cut short his vacation and immediately offered a £10,000 ($30,000) reward for information leading to the gang's arrest.

FAKE SIGNAL

Police with tracker dogs scoured the countryside and threw up roadblocks around Cheddington, 40 miles northwest of London, where the gang struck after faking a red signal to stop the 12-car diesel-powered train at a rural junction.

Of comparable robberies, the biggest cash haul in North America came from the robbery of a United States mail truck last Aug. 14 outside Plymouth, Mass. That loot totalled $1,551,277.

CARRIED ONLY MAIL

The train, en route from Glasgow to London, carried only mail and a staff of 75 postal workers. They were sorting through letters and parcels as the express stopped at the isolated Sears crossing just after 3 a.m.

Fireman David Whitby clambered down from the locomotive to investigate the red signal.

Pearls from Peasant of Kremlin

We Both Have Our Woes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "God has given you Adenauer and God has given us some foolish allies too."

The speaker was Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev presenting his views on allied troubles that beset both the United States and Russia. It was one of a series of quotes attributed to Krushchev by Sen. Hubert Humphrey, just returned from the Moscow signing of the nuclear test ban treaty.

The Kremlin leader was discussing West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer by name and the Chinese Communists by implication.

"It is like a porcupine that will continue to raise its needles."

This was Khrushchev commenting on the unsolved question of a divided Germany. The Kremlin leader, according to Humphrey, said that a one-sided settlement on terms of either the East or West "would be foolish solutions and would lead to war." He did not mention Berlin specifically.

Humphrey said the Soviet leader also used the simile of a mother trying to teach a child to walk in referring to the possible easing of East-West tensions:

"She doesn't push or hurry him — she permits him to walk in his own time."

★ ★ ★

"Some who oppose it should be subjected to psychiatric treatment because they are injuring our health."

This was Khrushchev on the nuclear treaty which he said "is good." According to Humphrey, Khrushchev commented: "People like it and people follow the doctor's prescription . . . to an ailing society."

★ ★ ★

And finally, Khrushchev on the prospect of continued ideological differences between Soviet Communism and the free world democratic concept:

"If it is destined that our coffins lie together, they will still take different positions."

Bonner to Make Major Statement

BREAK TODAY IN BCE CASE

A major break in the B.C. Electric impasse is only hours away.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said last night he expects to make a major announcement in connection with the case today.

He refused to elaborate but told a reporter "there'll be lots for you to write about."

He said the development stemmed "from a new direction" and indicated it resulted from behind-the-scenes activity which has been going on for the past two days.

"I can't say anything more at the present time," he said.

Immediate speculation was that the government and the B.C. Power Corporation had arrived at a formula for additional compensation which was acceptable to both parties.

If this is the case, it means government officials and spokesmen for the power company have resolved their differences over the question of BCE earnings since the date of appropriation in 1961.

$193,000,000

In his judgment handed down last week, Chief Justice Sherwood Lett placed a value of $193,000,000 on B.C.E.

British Columbia paid $173,000,000 under the terms of its expropriation legislation.

Following delivery of the judgment Premier Bennett said he was prepared to accept the court's figure.

B.C. Power officials said they would accept it only as the basis for negotiations and claimed it represented the August 1961 value and not current value.

Lett Judgment

Just Where Does B.C. Stand Now?

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Where does B.C. stand 10 days after Chief Justice Sherwood Lett shook the foundations of provincial utility legislation and crumbled the government's massive electrical edifice?

The biggest headaches which the Lett judgment impose on the provincial government are still sorely throbbing.

They come under two general headings: constitutional and practical.

The practical problems are these:

- B.C. no longer owns the B.C. Electric which it expropriated in August, 1961, at an eventual cost of $172,000,000.
- The B.C. Hydro and Power Authority which was created to meld the expropriated BCE with the old B.C. Power Commission does not legally exist.

Equally serious, if somewhat less urgent, is this constitutional problem:

- B.C., as well as other provinces, may no longer have the right to impose any form of regulation upon provincial companies which are subsidiaries of federal companies or provincial companies with extra-provincial activities.

Projected to the extreme, the Lett judgment may mean that B.C. could not force a department store owned by a federal government to collect and remit the provincial sales tax.

It may mean that the Public Utilities Commission no longer has the authority to regulate transportation rates within B.C. of a company which moves shipments to Alberta or the U.S.

First Look

At first glance, during the days immediately after the release of the judgment, its implications left government officials shocked.

Today, after more careful study, they are appalled.

In an effort to bring some order out of the chaos in which the practical questions have left the province, Premier Bennett has launched overtures towards reaching a financial settlement with B.C. Power.

If a settlement can be reached, this will solve the problem of ownership.

Wants Cut

The premier has agreed to accept Chief Justice Lett's evaluation of BCE—$192,828,125 or an increase of about $21,000,000 over what B.C. paid—but B.C. Power says that was the August 1961 value and it wants a cut at the subsequent earnings as well.

Mutual agreement on price, if it comes, does not solve the very real problem of the legal status of B.C. Hydro.

The chief justice held the Hydro Act to be invalid because it lacked substance subsequent to his findings in connection with the expropriation legislation on which it was based.

This can be remedied by new legislation which would re-create Hydro without alluding to the ultra vires acts.

Illegal Entity

The need to reconstitute Hydro in an acceptable manner would seem to be pressing. Already, as a result of it being branded an illegal entity, a Peace power project contractor has slowed down equipment purchases and a chartered bank briefly suspended trading in its securities.

B.C. Hydro is the agent named by B.C. and Ottawa to fulfill Canada's obligations under the Columbia Treaty with the U.S. and it would appear desirable to clear up its status before the province embarks on negotiations with Washington over the price to be paid for downstream benefit power.

and repression, but the movement is broadly in the right direction, two steps forward for every one back. There is reason to hope that eventually this will become a society with fewer inhibitions, more relaxed, less touchy. It has come far and fast already."

In history's long perspective, Russia is seen as having lived for long with its boots in the mud, its mainly peasant population jerked out of pastoral lethargy only sporadically by some ruler of genius.

Always there has been a conflict between those who looked to Europe and those who, rejecting it, looked inward. From 1672 to 1725, under Peter the Great, Dutch sea captains, German artillery officers and French engineers spearheaded the Europeanization sought by Peter but merely widened the gap between the educated classes and the illiterate population.

Set Stamp

With the revolution of October, 1917, power fell to a small group who set their stamp on society. Twelve Western nations tried to thwart the revolt when it went off what seemed to be a democratic course, and Russia has lived ever since in a mental stage of siege.

Western intervention against the revolution is cited as a proof of hostility, although non-Communist sources claim the interference was half-hearted and ineffective.

Whatever the rights and wrongs, the Soviets remain psychotically suspicious. Stalin certainly didn't believe in compromise, a quality some consider alien to the Russian character. His motto was "kogo kovo," loosely rendered as who cuts whose throat? The Kremlin rulers find it hard to understand what two parties can profit from a deal.

Chilling Story

Geography is also a conditioning factor in a country covering 8,600,000 square miles or one-sixth of the earth's surface.

As long ago as 1839 the French nobleman Marquis de Custine, whose chilling account of Czarist tyranny is still required reading for the student of Soviet affairs, wrote after a visit:

"Here, even the earth, the monotonous aspect of the land, bespeak symmetry; the complete absence of undulation in a terrain everywhere the same and usually barren, the lack of variety in vegetation always poor in northern soils, the lack of picturesque irregularities in the external plains where one would say one lone site obsesses the traveller and follows him like a dream from one end of the empire to the other — in short, all that God has failed to do for this country contributes to the imperturbable uniformity of the political and social life of the people."

Wideness

Russians themselves have a word for it—"shirota" or wideness. The long winters and the short growing season may account for the "inward-turningness" that some find in the people, for extremism and love of excess.

After hearing all thee generalizations, the reeling reporter poses the obvious question — how should we deal with the Russians? The swift reply: "Try a little sympathetic understanding. Be firm, but forthcoming."

Break Today in BCE Case

They said that because Mr. Justice Lett had held the expropriation legislation invalid the company was entitled to the earnings since the date of the take-over.

The premier contended the figure included the earnings but agreed to ask the court to interpret its valuation on this point.

The Lett judgment seemed specific.

TWO FIGURES

It brought in two evaluation figures — one representing market value and the other special value.

"It is my conclusion," the chief justice wrote, "that the market or commercial value of all the shares of the electric company (exclusive of any special value to the owner) as at the date of expropriation should be taken to be the fair market value of $188,125,000."

Special value was set at an additional $4,703,125 and there was no direct reference to accrued earnings.

EARNING LEVEL

The market evaluation figure was arrived at on the basis of an annual earnings level of $10,750,000.

After a day of legal give-and-take Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan adjourned proceedings in Vancouver to Tuesday—he has other commitments in the meantime. He said he was adjourning the case without issuing a stay order as vigorously sought by C. W. Brazier, counsel for the attorney-general.

The judge expressed the hope both sides would show good faith by getting together during the recess, warning: "I am not going to be available indefinitely."

NO FEAR

He had no fear, he said, that B.C. Power in the interim would move to repossess BCE.

Douglas McK. Brown, counsel for the power corporation, brought Mr. Brazier to his feet several times in protest during the day as he charged the government had not operated BCE separately as required by the order appointing a receiver. He said with the government legislation concerning BCE "all semblance of legal discipline disappeared."

LEGISLATURE

Mr. Brazier said he had nothing to do with acts of the legislature.

Mr. Brown said there was a "concerted" plan to so intermingle BCE in the authority that its assets could never be untangled.

Mr. Brazier, jumping up again, declared: "I must challenge that . . . The evidence doesn't show that."

Mr. Brown said $16,000,000 of the company's money had been spent on the proposed Peace River development and $4,000,000 was loaned to the former B.C. Power Commission before BCE and the commission were combined to form the authority.

He said if the damage was to be repaired by separating BCE from the authority it should be started now, not two years from now, the time needed for the case to get to the Supreme Court of Canada for final decision.

REPOSSESSION

Earlier Mr. Brown said BCP sought repossession of BCE because the utility now belonged to it and other persons' rights were affected as well.

The new government offer was put to the court by M. M. McFarlane, counsel for Attorney-General Bonner. The government now suggested that preliminary, non-binding negotiations be held between representatives of both sides while the status quo was maintained and BCE assets remained in receivership.

He said this was the alternative to asking Chief Justice Lett to determine what additional amount, if any, was due the power corporation above the $183,000,000 he placed on BCE in his judgment.

Mr. Brown, terming the offer "fantastic and impossible" said the government had now abandoned the procedure first suggested by Premier Bennett that the Chief Justice be asked to give a yes-or-no answer to the question of whether his $183,000,000 figure included estimated BCE earnings since the take-over—estimated in some quarters to be about $30,000,000.

Gang Loots Mail Train

ings pulled over their heads, were waiting for him.

"One of them pushed me down," Whitby said. "Another put his hand over my mouth. He told me: 'If you shout, I'll kill you.'

"Then they marched me back to the engine. My driver, (engineer) Jack Mills, was coshed (blackjacked), and the next thing I knew the gang was handcuffing us together."

Meanwhile another group of bandits uncoupled the front two coaches from the remainder of the train. Whitby and Mills then were ordered to take the engine and leading coaches about a mile down the track to a bridge over a country road.

Whitby said he and Mills were made to get out of the cab and lie down beside the rails. More masked men appeared and unloaded the mail bags. They took about 10.

Post office workers in the two front coaches said the robbers battered their way in, threatening to shoot anyone who stood in their way. As workers huddled in a corner, the bandits began hurling the mail bags into a waiting truck.

So expert was the raid that the post office men in the rear coaches knew nothing until a guard noticed that the front of the train had disappeared.

After the gang drove off, Whitby, 26, and Mills, 58, stumbled along the track in the darkness until they spotted an approaching train. A mail sorter flagged it down with a flashlight.

Local police were agog at the planning and detail which had gone into the robbery.

Where Does B.C. Stand Now?

New Hydro legislation and the authority to pay a higher price for BCE can only come from the legislature.

For this reason it is quite likely Premier Bennett will call a special session of the legislature in the near future if he can come to terms with B.C. Power on compensation.

Stormy One

A special session to deal with these two matters is likely to be a stormy one.

Both the NDP and the Liberals opposed the Bennett government's take-over methods in 1961 and 1962 and urged that expropriation be undertaken through the old Power Development Act which provides for arbitration over price.

The fact that the government's methods have failed the test of the B.C. Supreme Court would lead to a raucus chorus of "I-told-you-so's."

These, of course would overlook the fact that the old Power Development Act has never been subjected to the Supreme Court test.

In the light of some aspects of the Lett judgment it seems doubtful that expropriation under the Power Development Act would have been any more successful than under the special legislation unless B.C. Power had voluntarily accepted its conditions.

Unanimous

After shouting the legislation would pass, probably with unanimous consent.

The province, from its current accrued surplus, would dash off a cheque for several millions to B.C. Power, and Hydro would hang its shiny, new, right-as-rain charter on the office wall. The immediate practical crisis would become history.

The constitutional crisis, however, might be just beginning.

Aside from the cries of provincial subsidiaries of federal companies that they were not subject to provincial regulation under the terms of the Lett judgment, B.C. might find that it could not even regulate its own newly-constituted Hydro Authority.

Jurisdiction

For Chief Justice Lett seems to have said that B.C. has no jurisdiction over companies with extra-provincial connections.

He wrote that he had no hesitation in finding that the electrical operations of BCE fell within Section 92 (10) (a) of the British North America Act.

This section lists the subjects over which a province has exclusive jurisdiction and it specifically excludes "works and undertakings connecting the province with any other or others of the provinces, or extending beyond the limits of the province."

A reconstituted B.C. Hydro would own those works and undertakings of the old BCE electrical system which, in the Lett judgment, placed the company under the aegis of Section 92 (10) (a).

Export Plan

In addition, B.C. Hydro plans the export of power to the U.S. as well as the sale of Columbia downstream benefit power in the U.S.

Under one interpretation of the Lett judgment B.C.'s crown power authority would be answerable only to Ottawa and subject to federal regulation.

But B.C. wouldn't be the only province on the spot. Other Canadian provinces with crown utilities would be in the same fix and they too might find it impossible to go on regulating private utility companies with extra-provincial undertakings.

Students of constitutional law are frankly aghast at the ramifications which the Lett judgment could have across the length and breadth of the land. It could precipitate a major conflict between the federal government and the provinces over jurisdiction and it could so dislocate the important public utility segment of business that utter chaos would result.

In order to get out from under the constitutional cloud imposed by Chief Justice Lett, B.C. has four courses of action open to it—none of which can be considered a sure cure.

The first avenue is to appeal the judgment to the B.C. Appeal Court and, if it is upheld there, to the Supreme Court of Canada.

The second avenue is to try to precipitate an amendment to the British North America Act on which the judgment is founded.

Seek Ruling

The third avenue is to seek a ruling on B.C.'s powers through an application under the Constitutional Questions Determination Act.

The fourth is to leave the Lett judgment untested in the higher courts and to ignore its potential repercussions until they become actual repercussions, if they ever do.

All but the first of these courses assumes a settlement with B.C. Power on the price issue.

To appeal the judgment all the way to the Supreme Court of Canada will be lengthy and expensive and, perhaps, unsuccessful.

Privy Council

Because of anticipated universal provincial concern over the judgment B.C. might get substantial support for amending the BNA Act, a move which can only come from the Privy Council. In spite of the fact that efforts to amend the act have failed more often than they have succeeded, it is a relatively cheap approach to a solution and it could proceed simultaneously with an appeal.

In any event, if an appeal fails, amendment may be the only practical course of action left open.

The Constitutional Questions Determination Act would place the question before the B.C. Court of Appeal and it is doubtful the court would entertain an application if an appeal was still pending.

But if B.C. dropped the appeal this could be a means through which to establish provincial rights.

The fourth avenue—just forget the judgment and pretend it was a bad dream—has some devotees in government.

They say it has worked before in the case of unusual judgments.

So long as the judgment is untested, they argue, it remains merely a potential weapon in the hands of those who would use it for purposes contrary to the aims of the government.

If it is appealed and upheld it becomes a very real weapon.

One thing is sure, the eyes of Canada are peering west to see just how B.C. plans to tackle an extremely ticklish situation.

Corns Need Right Treatment There Isn't Any Substitute

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: How do I get rid of corns on each small toe? A chiropodist gives me temporary relief, but sometimes only for a week. This condition has gone on for more than 25 years.

Now it seems I should go to the hospital, and after surgery on my toes must not walk for three weeks. Having to work, I couldn't possibly do it. Any suggestions?—Y.H.

The most helpful advice I can give is to insist that you face facts and stop looking for some substitute for proper treatment of corns.

Corns are caused by pressure. Pressure comes from wearing the wrong shoes. You can remove the corns, but unless you remove that pressure, more will grow.

Now then, what to do? Tell your employer that your doctor says you must go to the hospital.

Once you have had your feet repaired, find out what kind of shoes to wear, and get them.

Shoes that are too short or too narrow or both are the cause of corns. High heels force the feet downward into the shoes, and it is quite unusual to find a woman without at least some corn formation.

Faulty foot mechanics — a weak arch, flat feet, hammer toe, etc., add to the trouble.

Sometimes metatarsal pads, by changing the position of the feet, help a great deal, but it is wishful thinking to expect relief without wearing larger and different-shaped shoes—with emphasis on lower heels.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: My mother underwent gall bladder surgery. Stones were removed and adhesions corrected. She is now under a strict diet to prevent indigestion and heartburn. I thought surgery relieved these symptoms and a person could eat normally. Is this correct?—E.B.

The gall bladder is a reservoir for an extra supply of bile (which the liver keeps producing). With the gall bladder removed, this extra supply is not available. Therefore (depending on original eating habits) a patient may have to be careful not to eat too much, and especially too much fat, but that's about all.

Habitually heavy eaters have to change their habits after such surgery. Light or moderate eaters usually continue to eat the same way. Your mother may have trouble in the stomach proper which was not corrected by the gall bladder surgery. I refer to ulcer, spasm, hyperacidity or possibly hiatal hernia.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been arguing with my mother about the best way for her to quit smoking. I say she should stop completely, once and for all. She says she should reduce gradually until she's down to one, and then stop. Which way is best?—L. H.

I quit "cold turkey." It worked for me. I know people who have reduced their smoking, although I don't recall any who have succeeded in cutting down to one and then stopping. The latter usually decide, somewhere along the line, that they have cut down enough.

Food Costs Push Price Index Up

OTTAWA (CP)—A sharp rise in food costs pushed living costs in Canada in June to a record high, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said Thursday.

The bureau reported an advance in the consumer price index to 133.5 at July 1 from 132.8 at June 1. The increase of seven-tenths of a point in June followed a half-point increase the previous month in the index—a prices yardstick based on 1949 price levels equalling 100.

The index at July 1 was 1.9 per cent above the July, 1962, index of 131.0.

Main factor in the June increase was a rise in the food index to 132.5 from 129.7, reflecting substantial price increases for beef, pork, veal, chicken and most fresh vegetables.

Higher prices also were reported for bakery products, eggs, lamb, turkey, canned fruits and juices, grapefruit, soft drinks, chocolate bars, jam and evaporated milk.

South Africans Bar Evolution

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP)—Education Minister Jan de Klerk has banned exhibits of the evolution of man from the Transvaal Museum here after complaints from ministers of Dutch Reformed Churches.

In a letter to the museum's curators he said the exhibits are offensive to a large section of the population. The display was only recently completed.

Ten years ago, after complaints from Dutch Reformed Churches, the labels on a similar exhibit in the Transvaal Museum were changed to make it clear Darwinism was a theory. But the churches were not satisfied. They arranged school children should not be shown the exhibit.

The Dutch Reformed Church synod's commission on public morals complained to de Klerk that the theory of evolution conflicts with holy writ. They insisted Adam was the first man and that man did not evolve from apelike creatures.

Arms Ban Won't Kill Apartheid

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — South Africa is expected to stick to its apartheid policy of racial segregation despite the UN Security Council's call for a worldwide arms embargo against the South African government.

There were indications that all UN members would not enforce the embargo.

Britain and France abstained on the vote. Both have announced they are not shipping any arms to South Africa which, as Britain put it, "would enable the policy of apartheid to be enforced."

However, French delegate Roger Seydoux of France called the resolution interference in South Africa's domestic affairs. Sir Patrick Dean of Britain said his government reserved its position on an all-inclusive embargo because of its defence commitments to South Africa.

"Man was formed in God's image," the memorandum said.

Comments the Johannesburg Star: "If man really was made in the image of God, all that can be said without disrespect is that this has proved no compliment to God."

Another paper finds it "bizarre" that South Africa, which has produced more evidence of evolution than any other single country, should be in the throes of a controversy about the theory.

Invaders Flee Haiti

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (UPI)—Eighteen uniformed men who identified themselves as members of the Haitian invasion force straggled back across the border into the Dominican Republic Thursday and said their attempt to topple President Francois Duvalier had failed.

A spokesman for the group said they had escaped back into the Dominican Republic after being cut off from the main invasion group. They said the bulk of the invaders had "fled into the mountains."

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Culture Minister Ekaterina Furtseva announced Thursday the establishment of new censorship boards to scrutinize theatrical works.

Clinic Opens For Smokers

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A leading cancer research centre announced Thursday the opening of an experimental clinic for persons who want to quit cigarette smoking.

Roswell Park Memorial Institute said the clinic was patterned to some extent after successful smokers' clinics in Sweden.

The institute said 40 male smokers will take nicotine-substitute drugs, plus another drug to control appetite.

Globe-Trotting Red Adair To Battle Fiery B.C. Well

FORT ST. JOHN — Paul (Red) Adair, globe-trotting fighter of oil and gas field fires, was scheduled to arrive here from Mexico today to help control a wildly blazing natural gas well fire that has killed one man and injured four others.

The fire which started with an explosion Wednesday is feeding on an estimated 250,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

An attempt to extinguish the blaze was called off Thursday when an insurance company insisted Adair be consulted.

Strong Position

THE GOVERNMENT of the Republic of South Africa has declared itself determined to maintain its policy of apartheid despite the world-wide embargo of arms imposed upon it by the United Nations Security Council. Its apparent attitude of disdain toward the measure implies that it regards itself as in such a secure position that it is immune to world opinion.

And to a large extent this is true. The Western democracies, particularly the United States, have innumerable reasons for not wishing to create any further rift between themselves and the Boer republic.

Until recently, in fact, Washington employed every type of delaying tactic to avoid the necessity of being party to any concerted UN effort calling for direct retaliatory action against South Africa because of its racial segregation policies.

The fact that it has now fallen partially in line with the wishes of the large Afro-Asian bloc in the United Nations was brought about simply because there was no alternative. By meeting the bloc's demands half way, Washington obviously hopes that the pressure upon it to support an all-out economic blockade of the republic will ease for the time being.

Washington's desire to evade a further confrontation with Dr. Verwoerd's government is understandable. Should it take the lead, as is sought by the Afro-Asian nations, in any move against the recalcitrant former Commonwealth member the American government would risk falling afoul of Great Britain and a number of other senior members of the Commonwealth who still maintain the closest relationship with South Africa even though she is no longer a member of the same club and practises a brand of politics abhorent to them.

But there are also other and stronger reasons why the United States does not want a head-on collision with South Africa—reasons which fall more within the precincts of practical reality than in the realm of emotional idealism.

Foremost among these is the strategic value of South Africa's geographical location in the scheme of Western security as a base of operations should trouble flare in either the Middle or Far East. Nor must it be overlooked that the South African government is perhaps the last remaining stronghold of militant anti-Communism in the continent of Africa, an attitude much appreciated and wholeheartedly supported by the Washington administration.

Then too, the high rate of American investment in the economy of South Africa, now among the most stable in the world, could well have some bearing on Washington's decision to tread softly in its dealing with that country.

Thus, as leader of the free world and foremost champion of liberty for all, the United States finds itself having to choose between high ideals and the defensive and economic needs of the Western world.

For as long as this dilemma exists Dr. Verwoerd's government will stand secure.

Time for a Cleaning

BEFORE the royal visit of 1959 there was talk of sand-blasting the front of the legislative buildings. At that time the face of the centrepiece of government had not been cleaned for 29 years. In the end, it wasn't then.

Now another four years and a few months have gone by. And the window ledges become blacker and blacker; the streaks and splodges on the soft grey Haddington Island stone and the granite spread and grow darker.

Much has been done in the last few years to further beautify Victoria, and this in part is due—and in no small measure—to Premier Bennett and his vision of a provincial capital without compare, a vision turned into action through the Capital Improvement District Commission.

In recent months particularly, a major ingredient of improvement around town has been paint, which has been applied to many premises with excellent effect. The legislative buildings need no such extra adornment to recover the full measure of grace and charm that was theirs when they were new and again 33 years ago. All they need is cleaning, and while this could not be called inexpensive, the cost surely would be worth while.

The work, it might be suggested, could most appropriately be included in the CIDC budget and carried out this fall or next spring after the session is over and before the tourists arrive in large numbers. And perhaps for this special purpose, since the buildings are the now-grimy heart of the capital, Mr. Bennett would loosen the purse-strings if necessary.

Needed Code

SAFETY regulation is so much a part of our lives today that we are apt to take it for granted. This applies especially in the fields of building and transportation, where the protective rules are many and rigid.

In this circumstance, it comes as a surprise and almost a shock to learn that carnival rides—which combine both construction and conveyance—are an exception. The National Safety League of Canada has found in a survey that no safety code for midway equipment exists in Canada at any level of government, municipal, provincial or federal.

It is not suggested as a consequence that the rides generally or frequently are hazardous. The reverse would seem true, for accidents are comparatively few; the delightful impression of peril is in almost all cases completely false. And indeed the last thing a carnival operator would want would be a mishap that might ruin his business. For the great majority of such enterprises, no regulation would be stricter, probably, than the owner's own responsibility.

The possibility remains, however, that from time to time someone will try to get by on a shoestring, taking a gamble with little at stake. It is against this eventuality that the public needs protection.

A draft of a safety code, based on examples in the United States, has been offered to the provincial governments by the league. The British Columbia government would do well to be among the first to adopt it.

"I agree with Khrushchev. Why can't we build socialism on the debris we have? . . . Why does it have to be radioactive?"

International Commentary

Britain and 'Decolonization'

By DEREK PAYTON-SMITH from London

THE intense interest of newly-independent countries in the constitutional and political progress of those which are still dependent has made this a dominant issue at the United Nations. This natural sympathy was reflected in the adoption, 2½ years ago, of the celebrated declaration which roundly declared that failure to take steps to end colonial domination was a denial of fundamental rights and contrary to the UN Charter; and also in the setting up, 12 months later, of the Committee of Seventeen (24 since last December) to inquire into and report on the progress of "decolonialisation."

* * *

The committe ended its second session on July 26 and will probably not meet again until early September. The interval will give its members a chance to reflect on a record which, to date, many of them must find disappointing.

Time and again, and particularly since the committee was enlarged, it has found itself in a blind alley, with a majority of its members forcing through resolutions unacceptable to the countries whose colonies they were considering, in an atmosphere of mounting frustration. This has been so not only in administering countries whose approach to colonial questions differs radically from that of the committee, but also in its dealings with Britain, whose ideas and practice in colonial administration largely inspired the conception of trusteeship embodied in the UN Charter.

In the session just ended, for instance, Britain felt herself bound to refuse members of the committee a visit to Aden and rejected a report on the Aden Federation as misleading and tendentious. It also had to make it clear to the committee that its sub-committe on British Guiana would not be allowed to visit that territory.

* * *

This lack of rapport is unnecessary and unfortunate; for if one thing is crystal clear, it is that there is complete identity betwen the aims and aspirations of the committee and those of British colonial policy.

Like the authors of the resolution on "colonialism," British spokesmen have repeatedly asserted their wish that colonial territories should be brought to independence as rapidly as possible—and they are entitled to be believed. No fewer than 16 former British dependencies had achieved independence before the committee was set up; three more followed suit last year and an independence date for Kenya has been set for next December.

What then divides the two sides? Basically, it is clear it is a difference over means with the friction being heightened by emotional factors. London was certainly sceptical of the usefulness of the committee when it was first mooted; being human, the British no doubt disliked the thought of being told to do what they had been doing of their own accord for so long. But it is only fair to them to state that these initial doubts about the usefulness of the committee seem to have been resolved.

* * *

"My delegation," the British permanent representative told the General Assembly last November, "believes that this committee can prove a most useful forum . . . where the administering powers can inform their colleagues of the measures they are taking . . . and the non-administering powers can give their own views and comments, based perhaps on their own experience of the transition between dependence and indepdendence."

And in fact the record shows that right from the start the British have endeavored to live up to the spirit of co-operation implicit in these words. They accepted an invitation to join it. They provided the committee with a mass of information about their dependencies, including records of conference proceedings. They received its delegates hospitably in London last year.

On the other hand, the non-administering states, many of them ex-colonies, have not felt able to approach without heat what is, after all, only one aspect of world colonialism today, namely Western Europe's involvement in overseas territories.

* * *

The fact is that the British have always stood firm on one point. They have insisted that the responsibility for taking decisions is their own and their own alone. They will not abdicate from this responsibility, nor share it with an outside body. They base their stand on the Charter itself; and also on good and practical arguments. A world assembly of 110 members sitting in New York cannot, they believe, be sufficiently well-informed to take final administrative decisions relating to circumstances in a variety of territories of which they have only the sketchiest knowledge.

They argue also that shared authority means confusion. Where, as for instance in British Guiana at present, conflicting groups need to be reconciled in order to find a basis for independence, they contend that outside intervention can only have a disruptive effect. They ask the committee to look at their record and to give them its confidence. But this a majority of the committee seems emotionally incapable of doing.

Instead it increasingly seeks to take a direct part in the affairs of the territories and to make its own contacts through the hearing of petitioners and other means. Almost inevitably such petitioners tend to be people who are opposed to whatever the administering power happens to be doing.

Hence the present friction between countries which share the same ideals and are working with the same ends in view. It is a situation which has led the committee into making snap judgments which are beginning to detract from its reputation and standing, and has increasingly put Britain into a false position and exposed her to unmerited reproaches. So far there is not a shred of evidence that the proceedings of the committee have advanced the independence of the British dependencies one jot; there are cases where it may conceivably do the reverse.

A change to a less aggressive and distrustful approach when the committee meets again in September might find the way out of a situation from which only the Communists can derive any satisfaction.

Washington Calling

A Complicating Problem

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WHEN President Kennedy looked over the wall in Berlin he stared straight into a problem complicating the nuclear test-ban treaty and the new approach to Moscow.

Put as simply as possible it is: Will a relaxation of tensions within the Communist bloc help the captive peoples in the satellite countries to greater freedom? Or will their hope of eventual liberation be sustained by keeping the pressure on and encouraging resistance to dictatorial regimes?

* * *

The answer to the first question within the Kennedy administration is an unqualified yes. The view has long been held that it is only through relaxations, such as followed the Poznan uprising in Poland, that concessions can be won with satellite peoples moving gradually toward greater freedom of choice.

The answer to a great many Republicans and some Democrats is no. At one extreme they argue that any accord with the Soviet Union brings a despairing acceptance of the hated order imposed by the might of Moscow and, therefore, the end of all hope for eventual liberation. This promises to be a major conflict in the debate over the test ban.

The same conflict divides the politicians of West Germany, which is a key piece in the effort to arrive at some form of non-aggression pact and broaden the area of relaxation. It came into the open recently when Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin and his press chief, Egon Bahr, made definite proposals to increase the contacts between East and West Germany. They argued that only by such steps could the reunification of the two Germanys be brought about.

* * *

Bahr proposed that the present semi-official representatives of East Germany and West Germany, who sit in Berlin and negotiate agreements covering $600,000,000 in trade between the two zones, be given a larger scope. They should have authority over all practical questions, he said. The goal must be to improve living conditions in East Germany. By easing tensions, so the argument went, it will be possible to find out whether gradually the East will allow more traffic between the two halves and through the wall.

This brought an indignant outcry from the Christian Democrats in Bonn who have so long dominated policy. Former foreign minister Heinrich von Bretano and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer set themselves sternly against recognition of any change in things as they are. One consequence was a stormy cabinet meeting, since the present foreign minister, Gerhard Schroeder, had given an interview in which he approved the test-ban treaty and indicated that a non-aggression pact between East and West might be possible if it did not mean any degree of recognition of East Germany as a separate state.

* * *

The fact is that West Germany has in recent years vetoed every proposal from the West to ease relationships between the two Germanys. Secretary of State Christian Herter in 1959 joined with other Western foreign ministers in Geneva to suggest a commission, including an East German representative, to supervise the large volume of traffic flowing between the two halves. This and other measures, carefully phrased so as not to preclude eventual reunification, were blocked by the Bonn government.

But at the same time the big industrialists in the Ruhr were rapidly expanding their trade with the Communist-bloc countries. Krupp's brilliant agent, Berthold Beitz, went on a second mission to Moscow in June and signed up new contracts for whole plants. Although the Germans minimize this trade, it is believed to be considerably larger than official figures show.

This is the economic reality behind the front of anti-Communist words. Germany has insisted that the United States hold an umbrella of respectability over that front. Other Western allies indulge in the same double play. France is sending an impressive trade mission to Red China.

* * *

Many Americans, including many members of Congress, conveniently ignore these realities. They prefer to keep the old image of Germany as rigidly anti-Communist. But American businessmen in Europe are complaining that contracts they might get for orders behind the Iron Curtain are blocked by U.S. department of commerce regulations and then promptly snatched by German, British and French firms.

Averell Harriman reported on his return from Moscow that a more stable East Germany would bring relaxation and even the possibility of the passing of the last of the Stalinites, Walter Ulbricht. That is the chance opening up in a new era.

Ottawa Offbeat

Like Old Times

By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

IT was the old "Fighting John" Diefenbaker again. He was back in the long-familiar role of the "man of the people," friend and advocate of the neglected and often forgotten taxpayer.

His voice dripping with sarcasm one moment, snapping with scorn the next, he was cutting and slashing at Prime Minister Pearson over that still so-hotly-controversial $8,000-plus parliamentary pay raise.

That was 12 days ago and the mail is still flooding in from people, many of them old age pensioners, cheering him on.

The Opposition leader and nine other MPs stood like Horatio at the Bridge, solid against the pay grab — it was, they said, simply and plainly "too much"—but they were mowed down 200 to 10. (Notice? Fifty-five absentees.)

* * *

It was like old times listening to him, index finger indignantly wagging, other hand on hip, scornful voice ripping and tearing.

This was the Diefenbaker of the days before he became prime minister and was subdued and often seemingly crushed by the sheer awful weight of overwhelming national responsibility.

He had, again, a cause, and you could just see him storming across the land as he did after the Battle of the Pipeline.

Only, some MPs comforted themselves, the people would forget by the time the next election rolls around.

Seems, though, that Mr. Diefenbaker doesn't think so, but instead, believes that when they come to make up their income tax they'll remember that Parliament shot the works for its own personal financial gain.

There have been suggestions that the government "managed" the news, letting it "leak" initially that the increases was to be "only" to $16,000, and so, "pre-conditioned public opinion," as it was expressed, for the shock of $18,000.

Look back, for a moment, at what Mr. Diefenbaker said, and ponder the wisdom of it.

* * *

"I can see a great deal of criticism," he said (and how right he was). "There will be wide spread questioning all across the country that this is an amount difficult of justification."

Then he made these other points, and MPs now home with a holiday pay packet of some $2,500 (the raise was backdated to election day in April) likely are pondering them:

1. The "responsibility" was exclusively the prime minister's and his Liberal government's.

2. He had made no "deals" on the pay increase in those quiet negotiations that went on in advance between the four parties, in fact, there had been neither "agreement nor consultation" between him and the PM.

3. No MP had been "conscripted" at $10,000 for Parliament, but all had campaigned for election.

4. That $8,000-plus the MPs were voting themselves was "a great many times larger" than the promised $10 monthly (for a year, but $120), they so far had failed to vote the old age pensioners.

5. Each MP was a "trustee of people" and should make "the most careful examination" of all issues so that public opinion might be "mobilized."

6. On this pay issue, each MP would have to decide "according to his own conscience."

* * *

Then here's where the Opposition Leader really zeroed in with the scarcely-veiled charge that with the $8,000-plus, the prime minister, in effect, had "bought" the support of the splinter groups, New Democratic and Social Credit.

He put it this way, and as he rolled out his accusation, mocking, it seemed, every bitter word, the prime minister winced, a warm, red glow coloring his neck and rising into his face:

In setting four years as the period required of a prime minister to qualify for a pension, the PM had "seemed to indicate that he believes that with the support of other parts of this House (the Splinters) he will be in office that length of time."

Then to make sure the House "got it," he rephrased it:

"I realize that if this legislation were delayed until the next election, I guess we would not get it through at all because there are members in some of the parties (those Splinters again) who would not feel constrained to support the government until such time as another election took place."

* * *

Each year that income tax time rolls around, remember that in nine years, Parliament has raised itself 400 per cent, from $6,000 to $18,000 plus with fringe benefits that could be worth another $6,000.

The Packsack

Subtle Force

By GREGORY CLARK

AN ODD thing about these so-called "country-style" radio music programs that originate in Canada is that the Canadian disc jockeys presenting them almost invariably affect what they deem to be a southern accent. By southern, I mean that hill-billy accent you get on the American programs originating anywhere south of New York or Chicago. That's south, in the entertainment world.

Now, I travel a good deal in the country in many parts of Canada and I have never run into any "country-style" accent anywhere. Not even in the remotest hamlets, not on isolated farms in the Maritimes, Ontario, the West, have I ever heard an accent remotely resembling the hayseed style of speech which is considered professional in Canadian "country-style" programs.

The forces operating to Americanize, or, I should say, United States-ize Canadians, are numerous, subtle and penetrating. Among the subtlest is the entertainment industry. It is a pity to see the good, square forthright speech of Canada denigrated in any degree whatever. It is not reasonable that the "country-style" entertainment of Canada should be uttered in the tones of the Ozarks or Alabama.

Today In History

By The Canadian Press

The Ashburton-Webster Treaty was signed at Washington 121 years ago today—in 1842—to settle outstanding differences between Canada and the United States.

The treaty was negotiated by Lord Ashburton and Daniel Webster and settled, among other things, disputes on boundaries between the two neighbors. Although the treaty was not popular in Canada, the United States or Britain, it served as a compromise.

Serious Rivalry

Who Will Succeed Chiang?

By STANLEY KARNOW from Taiwan

WITH Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek now 76 the talk here is increasingly of who will succeed him, especially since his recent abdominal operation.

Though the leader of the Chinese Nationalists for more than a generation is apparently in excellent health the succession question rises ever more frequently.

Constitutionally, Chiang's heir is Vice-President Chen Cheng, a former general whose association with his leader dates back to the early 1920s. But two factors may arise to usurp or weaken Chen's chances of succession.

He is 12 years younger than Chiang, but he is a chronically sick man who may not outlive his boss. And if he does, he may find his future power contested by Chiang's elder son, General Chiang Ching-Kuo, 54, whose strength lies in his control of this island's extensive security forces.

* * *

Neither Vice-President Chen nor Ching-Kuo has the stature to evoke the respect bestowed upon the older generalissimo. In many ways they complement each other, with Chen leaning towards civilian rule and Ching-Kuo more concerned with the military.

Yet it is no secret that they are serious rivals. Each has been striving to win the loyalty of army commanders and politicians within the Kuomintang, Formosa's ruling party.

Chen is said to favor flexibility and a certain degree of economic liberalism. He was instrumental in promoting the land reform program that has greatly improved Formosa's agricultural production.

Ching-Kuo is considered more authoritarian in approach. Though Formosa scarcely resembles a totalitarian monolith in the efficiency of its secret police, it is far from a democratic state. Ching-Kuo has been called "the most feared man on the island."

Comparing the rivals, some observers have labelled Chen the "American"; because of his inclination to accept the counsel of U.S. economic advisers, and Ching-Kuo the "Russian," because of his background.

* * *

The son of Generalissimo Chiang's first wife, a simple country girl ironically named Mao — whom Chiang divorced —Ching-Kuo was caught up in political agitation by the time he was 16. In those days the Chinese Nationalist movement was supported by Russia, and in 1925 Chiang sent his son to Moscow to study, where he stayed for 12 years.

Many changes occurred during those years, both in China and to Ching-Kuo. In 1927, when Chiang ousted the Communists from his movement, Ching-Kuo stayed on in Russia.

In his own account of his life in Russia, he says he worked on a collective farm and spent twelve months in a Siberian gold mine before being released and sent to a metallurgical factory in the Ural Mountains.

There he married a woman engineer named Fanina. His Russian wife and half-Russian children—some educated in the United States—now live with Ching-Kuo in Taiwan.

Released from Russia in 1937, Ching-Kuo returned to China, where his father had him tutored for several years to make him "Chinese" again. After the war, the generalissimo used his Russian-speaking son for private negotiations with Stalin and Soviet Marshal Malinovsky.

Ching-Kuo has always been shocked by social injustice and corruption. He has been given credit for trying to eradicate chaotic black marketeering in Shanghai during the skyrocketing inflation of 1948.

A common criticism of him is that he uses Communist methods in his professed crusade against Communism. He heads a youth corps that seems to be patterned along Communist lines and he controls a network of secret police, security agents and informers.

Suggestions are frequently made that Ching-Kuo is capable of making a deal with the Chinese Communists at some future date. He acknowledges that he has received letters from Peking, but claims that he has rejected several offers to collaborate with the Communists. Observers note, however, that he is never singled out for attack in the Communist press.

As constitutional ruler of Formosa at some distant date, Vice-President Chen Cheng would have a difficult time circumventing Ching-Kuo's power. He might also have an equally difficult time trying to co-exist with the man.

Test Ban Poser

Can Either Side Annihilate Submarine Fleets?

By FRANK MACOMBER

With the signing of a nuclear test-ban treaty, the United States and Russia presumably will halt undersea and atomic "saturation" test blasts designed to wipe out whole fleets of missile-armed submarines.

This poses a problem in anti-submarine warfare. If the undersea nuclear attack technique has not been perfected the test-ban treaty will require that alternate methods be studied.

The aircraft carrier may well have a related role in solving the problem.

It is not too difficult to determine the best firing position for missile submarines like the U.S. Polaris subs. An enemy may not be able to learn the precise location of individual subs, but can be pretty certain of their primary operating areas.

★ ★ ★

Obviously, undersea destruction can't be carried out piecemeal over a long period of time as it was in the Second World War. The time schedule for a nuclear conflict would require swift attack.

The aim would be to send massive shock waves through hundreds of square miles of ocean to crush submarines operating in the depths. Thus the problem of any navy becomes one of devising the appropriate nuclear weapons and of delivering them rapidly over a large area.

★ ★ ★

U.S. Navy strategists believe enough nuclear depth charges could be exploded in such an ocean area to destroy an enemy submarine force. A vast watery region would be saturated with nuclear explosions.

Small nuclear devices delivered over a large ocean area, in a manner similar to a string of firecrackers being fired one after another, would not be suitable payloads for missiles.

No nation could afford to shower small nuclear depth bombs by means of enormously costly missiles. The investment in long-range anti-submarine rockets would be out of the question.

The only logical means of delivering massive quantities of small underwater devices is the jet bomber, naval experts agree. The bomber has the load capacity, the range and speed, and could achieve such a mission at a comparatively low cost.

The bomber could saturate an ocean area of restricted size with destructive nuclear depth bombs.

★ ★ ★

Presumably, both the United States and Russia have tried this technique during their underwater nuclear test blasts. But with the signing of a nuclear test-ban agreement, only underground testing can continue. Nuclear depth charge techniques of both sides are so secret there is no way to determine whether either the United States or Russia has perfected the technique.

★ ★ ★

The only reliable method of air defence at sea is a sea-based air defence system. This means aircraft carriers equipped with the most advanced interceptors. On this basis U.S. naval authorities argue that carriers, far from becoming obsolete as their critics claim, actually would enact a key role in any general nuclear war.

Mac to Shuffle Cabinet

Prime Minister Macmillan is expected to make some important changes in the government later in the parliamentary recess—in time for the Conservative Party's annual conference in October.

Edward Heath, lord privy seal, who was in charge of the common market negotiations and has been working closely with the Earl of Home, foreign secretary, is expected to be given a key post in the cabinet.

The new ministery of defence, under the integrated program for the three services, is widely mentioned.

Iain Macleod, leader of the House, is another senior minister who may be promoted to a major department, such as the Home Office.

At the same time Mr. Macmillan is expected to consider some of the abler junior ministers who are due for promotion, replacing seniors who may be willing to stand down before the election to make way for younger men.

But the prime minister is unlikely to consider any wider reconstruction until he receives Lord Denning's report of the Profumo inquiry.

Viet Nam Anachronism

Poison Arrows Used In 'Nasty Little War'

In an age of nuclear weapons and the threat of mass annihilation, Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam are using one of the oldest weapons of man—the poison arrow.

Frequently called the nasty little war, the Viet Nam conflict has brought out insidious methods of fighting.

Although the Communists have large numbers of standard weapons such as rifles, pistols, small cannon and automatic guns, they have been ingenious and resourceful in adapting nature and primitive methods to create weapons.

Unusual combat techniques has included these:

● Short metal or bamboo spikes placed upright in fields and rice paddies where troops are likely to tread.

● Long, sharpened bamboo poles stuck in tall grass with the points in the direction from which an attack is expected.

● Camouflaged barbed wire placed around trees, in such a way that an unsuspecting person will be cut by the barbs when he triggers a taut wire.

● Home-made hand grenades used as booby traps in fishing nets, fruit trees, chicken coops and other places where troops might be curious or might help themselves.

● Bamboo mines, consisting of bamboo filled with explosives.

Security Council

Tug-of-War at UN

Another bitter controversy is shaping up over selection of three nations to fill vacancies next year on the Security Council of the United Nations.

The matter will be resolved by the next General Assembly, which convenes in September, but the manoeuvring already is under way.

Latin Americans have agreed on Bolivia as their choice for a seat customarily reserved for the Commonwealth.

★ ★ ★

The Soviet bloc favors Czechoslovakia to fill a seat which, in the early days of the United Nations, was customarily reserved for Eastern Europe.

And the African states have agreed to push Ivory Coast for a seat despite the fact that none is regularly reserved for Africa.

So with four candidates for three vacancies, something has to give.

At this moment, the odds favor Malaya, Bolivia and the Ivory Coast, but the Soviet bloc will not sit idly by watching Czechoslovakia go down to defeat.

★ ★ ★

There is another possible solution. Just about everybody is in favor of enlarging the Security Council to assure Africa and Asia the representation they obviously should have.

The Soviet Union has used its veto to block any charter revisions in the past on the premise that Communist China must be seated in the United Nations before any changes can be made. These threats have been repeated this summer by the Soviets, but diplomatic sources have reported in the last few days a less strident position by the Soviets.

Westerners, however, are doubtful that the Soviet Union will lift its opposition and clear the way for enlargement of the two councils.

The issue may finally be resolved by splitting the usual two year term into two one-year terms, as has been done in the past.

★ ★ ★

Expiring this year are the terms of Ghana, Venezuela and the Philippines. Remaining on the council are Norway, Morocco and Brazil, plus the five permanent members, the United States, Soviet Union, United Kingdom, France and China.

Papers Hit As Market Declines

MONTREAL (CP) — The stock market suffered a sharp setback. The composite index fell 0.6 to 119.8 in moderate trading and declines outnumbered advances 93 to 44.

Papers were the heaviest losers. International fell ⅛. MacMillan-Bloedel dropped ⅛ and Fraser and Abitibi were down ⅛ each. The index dropped 0.8 to 105.3.

The utilities index lost 0.7 to 117.4, as Calgary Power slipped ⅜ and Bell Telephone eased ⅛.

Banks were off 0.3 on the index, at 121.5, led by Toronto-Dominion, down a point. Imperial and Royal dropped ⅜ each, Montreal rose ⅜ and Nova Scotia was up ⅛.

In refining oils, prices were mixed. Trans - Mountain Pipe Lines and B.A. Oil added ⅛ each. Shell and Royalite preferred were off ⅛ each and Imperial fell ⅛.

CIL fell ⅛, Canadian Marconi lost five cents, Industrial acceptance was lower by ⅜ and Massey-Ferguson eased ⅛, as the industrial index dropped 0.6 to 120.2.

Banks Back Down

TORONTO (CP)—The stock marked rambled on lower ground during a day of feeble trading.

Toronto - Dominion Bank slipped one to 60½ and Imperial Bank of Commerce and Royal dropped ½ among bank issues.

International Minerals and Chemicals rose one to 57 on light volume among industrial gainers. Investors Syndicate A and Levy gained ½ and Ontario Steel advanced ⅜.

International Nickel dipped ⅜ and Falconbridge declined ⅛ in senior base metals.

Among speculative mines, Satellite climbed two to 23 cents and Wiltsey slipped 1 to 16½ cents. Other actives included Purdex and New Senator, both changing slightly.

Standouts among gold issues included Dome up 1⅜ to 33⅜ and Kerr-Addison up 25 cents to $6.25.

Some western oils were active although changes were slight. Central Del Rio climbed 10 cents to $7.65 and Unisphere rose three to 35 cents.

Wall St. Relieved

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market took in stride the final report of the Securities and Exchange Commission on its investigation of the securities industry.

Prices were mixed at the close after having been down mildly when the report came out. Trading was moderately active.

The SEC's recommendations and conclusions were taken by the investment community to be considerabely less harsh than those in the second instalment three weeks ago.

The SEC proposed closer regulation of stock exchanges and the over-the-counter market and criticized some mutual fund activities. It found no evidence of manipulation or illegal conduct in connection with the May 1962 market break.

Bethlehem Rises

VANCOUVER — Bethlehem Copper picked up to 4.85 to lead a mixed mining section. Endako at 4.10 and Western at 3.35 also showed rallying tendencies, while Granduc was firm at 4.20.

Bralorne weakened sharply to 4.10 among golds, while Kootenay was active and lower at .37 among base metals.

Peace River traded actively lower at .46 among oils.

* * *

Montreal Bonds

MONTREAL (CP)—The bond market was slightly lower in quiet trading. Short-term Canadas fell five cents. Long-terms, provincials and corporates were unchanged.

Commonwealth Plan

Trade Boost Urged

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

The appointment of a Commonwealth trade minister in Britain is suggested by former U.K. chancellor of the exchequer Selwyn Lloyd as one of three methods of improving trade between the Commonwealth countries.

Mr. Lloyd in a letter in The Times also advocates the formation of a Commonwealth economic development council with powers to initiate policy, and a Commonwealth export council that could advise, persuade and put pressure on exporters.

Although Mr. Lloyd lost his place in the U.K. cabinet through a shuffle a year ago, he is regarded as a powerful figure in his party. He says he was in favor of Britain's application to join the ECM but has doubts if the Europeans will ever accept British conditions.

A step up in Commonwealth trade appears to Mr. Lloyd to be Britain's best alternative.

In view of the current problems arising in Canada through the imposition by the U.S. of a 15 per cent levy on purchase by Americans of Canadian and other foreign securities, Canada's interest in Commonwealth affairs is probably higher than it has been for some time.

There is a very real fear that the restriction of U.S. capital investment in Canada will increase Canadian interest rates if the Canadian dollar is to be preserved at its present level.

And if interest rates go up then Britain and other countries who are not taxed 15 per cent on capital movement into this country are likely to find Canadian investment more profitable than it will be to the taxed U.S. investors.

In turn, this changed trend of capital flow might also alter the trade flow which in recent years has tended to increase between Canada and the United States and to decline between Canada and members of the Commonwealth and European countries.

TIGHTER MONEY HERE

Short term money rates rose to a four-month high, when the federal government paid 3.52 per cent on its 91-day treasury bills. This was an increase of .09 per cent from a week ago, and up .33 per cent from the 1963 low May 31 and June 13.

The supply of day-to-day money has also tightened considerably and is currently trading at 3¼ per cent.

The money market is reported to be nervous and erratic due to apprehension that Canada will continue to lose U.S. reserves.

The firm of James Richardson and Sons says, "The pressure on the Canadian dollar has been considerable and could be further aggravated when the full effect of President Kennedy's proposed legislation comes into play in regard to outstanding Canadian equities."

COWICHAN TO DRILL

Cowichan Mines Ltd. is reported to be planning a new diamond drilling program on recently-acquired crown mineral claims to the north of its mine and mill operation at Jordan River.

Surface showings running about 1,500 feet have been discovered running through the river valley.

TOP GROWTH STOCKS

According to an eastern advisory investment firm, Canada's fastest growing stocks in the past five years have been in the fields of chemical production, gas distributors, trust companies, electric utilities and wholesale grocery suppliers.

Top place in the growth stocks was Oshawa Wholesale, which had a growth rate of 30 per cent. It supplies independent groceries in the London area.

Next with a growth rate of 25.7 per cent came Canadian Chemical, followed by Atlantic Acceptance (22.9 per cent); M. Loeb and Co. (22.5 per cent) and Crown Zellerbach Canada (20.1 per cent).

In the 15 to 20 per cent growth bracket were Du Pont of Canada, Canadian Hydrocarbons, Fleetwood, Inversotes Syndicate, Dominion Textiles, Great Lake Paper, McIntyre Porcupine and Consumers Gas.

In the 10 per cent to 15 per cent bracket came in this order, National Trust, MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River, Nova Scotia Light and Power, Great Lakes Power, Atlantic Wholesalers, Harding Carpet, George Weston, Gt. Northern Capital, General Batteries and Union Gas.

Sniff the air at 51° North 114° West Air is not the same everywhere. Crisp winter prairie air is different from humid summer city air. Mountain air is different from sea level air. And there is another reason why ADL rye whiskys taste smoother, finer. They age in the cool dry air that sweeps in from mile-high Rocky Mountain passes. This marriage of air and ageing whisky gives the character and quality you enjoy – and only ADL whiskys offer this unique distilling advantage. Next time, ask for an ADL rye. You'll probably ask for it again.

King Fisherman

It's a Bumper Year for Contest

Although fishing has hit a lull in the Sooke-to-Victoria waterfront as compared to a week or two ago, there are still plenty of fish in those waters and when entries are added to increasingly good up-Island fishing, the King Fisherman contest is having a bumper year.

CHIEF JOSEPH MODUPE JOHNSON
... "he is mad"

* * * * * *

He'll Fight, Or Else

Paunchy Politico Pulls No Punches

By KENNETH WHITING

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Nigeria's pugilisitic politician was faced with two problems Thursday in connection with Saturday's title fight between middleweight champion Dick Tiger of Nigeria and Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah.

He plans to solve them by:

1. Finding a new rain doctor.
2. Threatening the Nigerian Boxing Board of Control with dismissal.

Chief Joseph Modupe Johnson, 51-year-old cabinet minister with the labor and sports portfolios, announced Monday that a "rain doctor" would be hired to see no showers dampened Linerty Stadium at nearby Badan, during the fight.

Johnson declined to name the rain doctor, but said Thursday:

"We will have to hire another rain doctor in Ibadan so there will be no jealousy. My rain doctor is coming from Lagos and I want no rivalry."

* * *

Rain doctor or no rain doctor, Lagos was drenched again Wednesday with three hours of heavy tropical rain.

Johnson's other problem arose when the boxing board refused him a licence to fight a preliminary bout on the Tiger-Fullmer card. The six-foot two-inch, 220-pound official startled the sports world a few weeks ago by challenging Jack Toller, a retired professional heavyweight from Ghana, to a four-round match to prove "a man is not finished when he passes 50."

* * *

Johnson's wife reacted with the statement "he is mad." And the boxing board reacted by declining to sanction the fight.

Ghana's boxing control commission refused the licence for Toller, who also is more than 50, but Johnson says his opponent is due here from Accra today.

"The board has thwarted me so far but if they continue to interfere I shall dissolve them and appoint a caretaker committee."

The battling cabinet minister says he has been keeping in trim by early morning workouts and exercise in his office.

* * *

The last time he appeared in the ring was to cautiously spar two one-minute rounds with Tiger at the champion's training camp to "show how serious I am."

He was a striking, paunchy figure in a skyblue sweatsuit but he was forced to remove the spiked football shoes in which he arrived at the gym.

"I did not have any others," he explained but his offer to work out barefoot was unnecessary as a pair of gym shoes quickly was produced.

Lions' Edge Big in Statistics But Nine Points on Scoreboard

REGINA — B.C. Lions gave Saskatchewan Roughriders another statistical drubbing Thursday night but a defence which refused to yield in close again made a hero out of rookie - placekicker Peter Kempf as the Lions settled for a 16-7 win in their Western Football Conference opener.

That was what was on the scoreboard. Other statistics showed a total offence for the Lions of 346 yards to 100 for the Riders.

Kempf, who scored 40 points in the Lions' three pre-season games, including all 18 in a win over Ottawa Rough Riders, made the difference with three field goals in three chances and the convert of the only touchdown the Lions managed.

Much improved defensively over the club which took a 40-0 lacing from the Lions in a pre-season game, the Riders were almost completely contained by a good B.C. defence after a spectacular opening play and for the most part were forced to fight a holding battle.

Losers managed only nine first downs, five of them in the first half, and only twice did they manage to put as many as two first downs together.

GREAT GALLOP

After Billy Gray had taken a pitchout and raced 75 yards to the B.C. 13-yard line to set up their only score, the Riders bogged down. In spite of Gray's gain, they ended the first half with only 59 net yards from rushing.

Gray finally got the touchdown, converted by Reg Whitehouse, from the three-yard line.

STOPPED AGAIN

Riders were stopped early in the second half in their own end of the field when Norm Fieldgate made a fine interception. They were stopped again later in the third quarter after getting within 21 yards when Neal Beaumont intercepted, then gained only one yard in three plays midway through the fourth quarter after getting to within 36 yards on Neal Habig's interception.

Gray got only three more yards after his big run and and ace halfback Ray Purdin lost 10 yards in seven carries. Bob Ptacek and M. C. Reynolds, splitting the Rider signal-calling, completed only seven of 21 passes for 66 yards and had two intercepted.

NET 54 YARDS

Another measure of the Rider offence can be gleaned from the fact that their net rushing yardage for the game was 54 yards after their first running play had netted 76.

Lions opened impressively, scoring from 68 yards in seven plays with Nub Beamer going the last yard, then bogged down everytime they got moving again to settle for field goals.

DEVASTATING PAIR

Well rushed, Kapp had an unimpressive night passing but he had Beamer and Willie and they were a devastating pair of runners.

Fleming went for 145 yards in 14 trips, including jaunts of 42, 27, 20 and 18 yards, while Beamer added another 105 yards in 20 carries for a big start in defence of his ground-gaining championship.

Fleming started the sequence which set up the winning goal with his 42-yard romp. Lions got within six yards early in the second quarter, then had to call on Kempf for his first field-goal, from 12 yards.

A recovered fumble, made by Reynolds after being crashed by Tom Brown, gave the Lions the other chance late in the first half. With time for only one more play on a first-down situation, Kempf made it 13-7 from 20 yards.

Fieldgate's interception put the ball in play only 20 yards out. The Lions got one first down and as far as the five-yard line before having to call on Kempf again. He gave them a breathing margin with a sharply-angled 15-yarder which closed out the scoring.

Defeat, before just over 12,000 fans was the first for the Riders, who opened their season with a 19-16 win over the Eskimos in Edmonton Monday. Eskimos play in Vancouver next Monday for the Lions' home debut.

Canada Comes Back Against New Zealand

CP from AP-Reuters

MELBOURNE, Australia — Canada led New Zealand 2-0 and Britain and Australia were 1-1 after the morning's foursomes in the second round of the Commonwealth women's golf tournament today.

Canada suffered a 5-0 defeat Thursday at the hands of Britain with one match halved. Australia beat New Zealand 4-2 in the same day's play. Four singles matches were scheduled for later today.

The results of the morning matches:

Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto and Judy Darling Evans of Hudson Heights, Que., beat Una Wickham and Jean Manyan of New Zealand, 5-3.

Gale Hitchens of Vancouver and Mrs. Betty Stanhope Cole of Edmonton defeated Susan Grigg and Natalie White of New Zealand, 5-3.

Margaret Masters and Judith Percy of Australia, beat Marley Spearman and Frances Smith of Britain, 3-2.

Joan Fletcher and Pat Borthwick of Australia, lost to Julia Greenhalgh and Sheila Vaughn of Britain 3-2.

In Thursday's foursome play, Mrs. Cole and Miss Hitchen lost to Mrs. Greenhalgh and Miss Vaughn 3 and 2.

Mrs. Streit and Mrs. Evans halved with Mrs. A. D. Spearman and Mrs. R. Smith.

In singles, Mrs. Spearman defeated Mrs. Streit 3 and 1, Mrs. Vaughn beat Mrs. Evans 5 and 4, Mrs. Greenhalgh downed Mrs. Cole 6 and 5, and Mrs. Smith defeated Rae Milligan of Calgary 3 and 1.

Giant Killers Swing Big Sticks Knock Off Dodgers, Cardinals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ron Santo and Duke Carmel played the giant killer roles Thursday in the National League for Chicago Cubs and New York Mets.

Santo's 10th inning homer, his second of the day, gave the Cubs a 5-4 victory over Los Angeles Dodgers. Carmel, a Cardinal until July 29, beat his old St. Louis mates with an eighth-inning homer 3-2.

As a result of the defeats of the Dodgers and Cardinals, idle San Francisco Giants edged into second place, and gained one-half game on the Dodgers, whose lead now measures 5½ games. The Cards dropped out of a second-place tie.

New York Yankees continued to roll, beating Washington again 3-1, on a six-hitter by Ralph Terry. Phil Linz started the Yanks on their way with a fifth inning homer off Don Rudolph.

RADATZ LOSES AGAIN

Rocky Colavito's 10th inning single sent Dick Radatz down to his third straight defeat as Detroit topped Boston 6-3. Minnesota whipped Los Angeles Angels 3-0 behind Dick Stigman's five-hitter.

Santo had tied the score for the Cubs with his 19th homer in the fifth after a Dodger home run barrage had routed Bob Buhl and rolled up a 4-3 lead. Santo hit No. 20 off Larry Sherry in the 10th.

Terry had to put down a Washington threat in the ninth when he lost his shutout. Don Blasingame led off the ninth with a double, took third on an infield out and scored on Chuck Hinton's sacrifice fly. Jim King beat out a bunt but Don Lock popped to second for the final out.

Tony Kubek's single, Bobby Richardson's double and Tom Tresh's single knocked out Rudolph in the eighth inning.

In night games, Cincinnati defeated Philadelphia 6-3, Pittsburg blanked Milwaukee 1-0 behind Bob Friend's six-hitter, Cleveland's Dick Donovan shut out Baltimore 2-0 on three hits and Gary Peters won his sixth in a row as the Chicago White Sox downed Kansas City 5-3.

Bill Mazeroski's single and Donn Clendenon's double in the ninth inning produced the Pirates' run and handed Braves' rookie Bob Sadowski the defeat.

Joe Azcue scored both Indians' runs—one on a steal of home in the seventh inning.

Seventeen Islanders Still in Big Match

OTTAWA — Seventeen Greater Victoria marksmen were among 300 to qualify yesterday for tomorrow's final half of the Governor-General's match, considered the toughest of the week-long Dominion of Canada Rifle Association matches.

About 600 of Canada's best service rifle shots entered the competition and were led by Maj. A. H. Smedmore and FO Jack Butterfield, both of St. Thomas, Ont., who both fired 145x150.

Best score by a Victoria shot was a 142 fired by Cpl. Bob Walker of the RCMP, Frank Morse of Canadian Scottish reserve, and Vic Finholm, RCAF, who finished 43rd and 44th, and 53rd, respectively.

Victoria qualifiers in the Governor-General's Match:

43-Bob Walker 142; 44-Frank Morse 142; 53-Vic Finholm 142; 74-C. Hobson 141; 82-Eileen Leanord 141; 102-Smokey Green 141; D. Kelzer 140; 113-Gordon Fraser 140; 144-George Tory 139; 152-R. OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

This weekend take the family to your favorite spot on Vancouver Island and you will find fairly good fishing.

Since the big run of pinks tapered off in Sooke to Victoria waters there has been no special hot spot, but everywhere reports fair to good fishing, with tyee fishing just starting.

From Buttle-Upper Campbell Lake Jim Boulding reports good trout fishing, especially for fly fishermen. Gold River tyee fishing is picking up. As scheduled now the road will be open Thursdays and Fridays from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. and Saturdays and Sundays all day, except for Thursday, Aug. 22 when it will be closed. Road is closed other times by Tahsis for bridge repairs and any changes to these dates will be posted at the road entrance. Some minor revisions are expected.

Corky Corbett of Painter's reports good coho fishing on silver-bodied bucktail at Campbell River. Tyee fishing is picking up and there are quite a few pinks around, although it is an off-season year for the east coast.

Earl Brooks of Rod and Reel Resort classes fishing in Shelter Point waters as fair with coho in the seven and eight-pound class.

George Bates says coho fishing has been fair all along the Bates-Little River-Comox area with the Bellbuoy and Cape Lazo hottest spot for four to six-pounders. A few springs are also being taken.

Deep Bay has been good for coho, but many are under five pounds. Sandy Mitchell, King Fisherman Vancouver Island Helicopters trip winner last year, had a catch which included a 31-pound spring at Deep Bay at the weekend.

Murray Cree says there are lots of coho at Qualicum, seven to eight-pounders, and a number of good-sized springs. There is good bucktail fishing for the coho on red and white and light blue flies. Cutthroat fishing at the mouths of the rivers is still good.

Gordon Murphy of Port Boat House reports a few tyee off the island across from Port Alberni and that coho fishing for 10 to 12-pounders has been quite good. Gus Beurling reports Nahmint came on hot for tyee yesterday with five boats out bringing back eight fish, two of them 42-pounders. Herring, plugs and spoons are all getting them.

Claytons has been very good for coho up to nine pounds and some springs up to 30 pounds are being taken.

Cowichan Bay spring salmon fishing is coming into its best period. Early mornings have been best. Fish have been off the camp, but late this week some moved into the weed line.

Andy Davidson reports Sooke fishing has dropped off a little, but fog has hindered fishermen. There are still some humps around and a few coho, seven to eight pounds.

Frank Baker and Frank Elliott has been hitting good numbers of coho and spring salmon right in San Juan Bay at Port Renfrew.

Port Renfrew's spring salmon derby is now under way until Sept. 29; free children's derby is slated for Sept. 21 and coho derby July 13 to Sept. 29. Big prize presentation will be Oct. 5 with $500 in prizes to be distributed.

There has been good spring salmon fishing at Pedder Bay on the rising tide for 12 to 20-pounders. Pedder has a few coho and a few humps still around.

At Becher Bay there is a good run of springs, up to 34 pounds and coho fishing has been fair for up to 15-pounders. Change of tide has produced best fishing.

Humps have fallen off at Oak Bay, but there has been good coho fishing off Trial in the evenings on bucktail flies. Big springs are still at The Gap.

James Island has been giving up good coho fishing.

Brentwood waters have been fairly good for springs, mostly small, and for coho around the five-pound mark. Fish are biting pretty well all day with concentrations around The Boulder, Ricky's Roost, Stone House. Goldstream end of Inlet has been good for springs up to 15 pounds and coho up to six pounds, with the odd humpie showing.

* * *

Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association plans its annual big dance this Saturday to "butter up the wives" before hunting season starts. This is the big pre-hunting dance when the wives are treated like queens, because they will be left alone a great deal of the time during the hunting season.

For pre-hunting shooting practice and sighting-in the fish and game range at Esquimalt Lagoon will be open every Thursday evening for club members and every Sunday afternoon for club members and their guests. One week prior to season opening it will be open every evening.

Trap layout at the Goldstream clubhouse will be open every Wednesday evening until Sept. 1 for club members and Sundays from 1 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. for members and their guests.

Imps Even Record

Imperials got four-hit pitching and three home runs at Heywood Park last night to beat McLarens, 11-3, in the third game of the senior men's softball league double-loss elimination tournament.

Imperials have a 1-1 record and McLarens are 0-1. They meet again Monday at 6:45, the loser dropping out and the winner going on to play Sooke, which has won its only game.

Darrell Lorimer and Al Robertson hit two-run homers and Tim Walker led off the first inning with a homer for Imperials while Gordie Houston and Glen Langsett checked McLarens. Jim Wilson homered for the losers.

McLarens	010 000 2	—	3	4	3

Jeff Hett, Rod Turner (4) and Jim Wilson; Gordy Houston, Glen Langsett (7) and Bill Petersen.

It's Hockey In August

Hockey films in August? You bet.

Instructional films plus a feature film on the life and career of Gordie Howe will be shown for the Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association tonight at 7:30 at the Labor Hall, Pandora Avenue.

Admission is free and the public is invited.

Clubs open their best-of-seven, Inter-City Lacrosse League semi-final here on the Wednesday night, and go back to Victoria Friday. Other dates, set on the assumption the series goes seven games, are Aug. 20 in New Westminster, Aug. 21 in Victoria, Aug. 23 in New Westminster, Aug. 26 in Victoria and Aug. 28 in New Westminster.

New Westminster warmed up for the playoffs by whipping Vancouver, 17-8, here last night, with Jack Blonda scoring three goals and assisting on four others. Paul Parnell scored four times for the winners.

Foster Wins $6,500 Race

EDMONTON — Victoria's Billy Foster held onto his first-night lead to win the $6,500 Gold Cup stock car race here last night.

Foster led after the first 100 laps Tuesday night and the second half, which was to have been raced Wednesday, was rained out.

Last weekend Foster won the $8,000 Copper Cup race in Salt Lake City.

Builders Rest On Their Oars

Independents	18	16	.446	6
Athletics	19	16	.429	6½
Builders	18	19	.486	9½

Last night's score: Builders 2, Independents 0.
Next games: Sunday—Transport Workers vs. Athletics (doubleheader), 1 p.m., Royal Athletic Park.

Builders have done all they can to get into the playoffs in the Senior Amateur Baseball League. Now they must wait, and hope for plenty of co-operation.

Builders completed their schedule with a 2-0 shutout victory over Independents last night at Royal Athletic Park, but still trail third-place Athletics by one game. If Builders are to finish third, Athletics must lose at least three of their remaining four games.

Three loses would leave the clubs tied, and losing all four would drop Athletics below Builders and out of the playoffs. Athletics play first-place Transport Workers in a doubleheader Sunday at 1 p.m.

Des Moseley pitched a five-hitter for his shutout while Builders, who could get only four hits off Nick Klinick and Norm Billsbrough, made them count.

Bombers Given Jolt

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers received a jolt Thursday afternoon from the announcement that Ron Latourelle is suffering from mononucleosis and may not play football for at least a month.

Latourelle, a two-way halfback, is considered one of the key players on the Western Conference and Canadian League championship squad.

The 29-year-old nine-year Canadian veteran is on four of the club's six teams, playing as an offensive and defensive halfback, on the club's kickoff squad and as safety with Henry Janzen on the club's punt return team.

Mononucleosis is a blood disorder for which complete rest is generally the prescribed basic remedy.

To add to the worries of the coaching staff as they prepare for their second meeting of the season with Calgary Stampeders, is the word that end Ernie Pitts is a doubtful starter for Monday night.

Pitts received an injured shoulder last Tuesday when Calgary defeated Winnipeg 36-27 in Calgary.

Mr. Cricket Left at Dock For Worshipping Too Long

VANCOUVER (CP)—Australia's Mr. Cricket, who has travelled 1,000,000 miles for the sport, missed a boat to San Francisco Sunday because he was watching a cricket game.

Arthur Malley, 75, former Australian test cricketer and test team manager, was watching a cricket game in Stanley Park when he realized that the liner Orcades sailed in 15 minutes.

When he arrived at the dock the gangway was up and the last line had been cast off.

"Cricket is a form of religion, there's something about it that makes it greater than all other games," he said as he left by plane for San Francisco to catch the ship on which he will continue a world tour. He visited a son here.

City Juniors Waiting For Golf Selections

B.C.'s four-man entry for the team competition at the Canadian junior golf championships starting Aug. 27 at Royal Colwood will be selected in Vancouver tonight, with at least one Victoria golfer rated a cinch to make the team.

Speculation is that Victoria's Gary Smith will be named along with Doug Robb and Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver, with Colwood's Ricky Kent a strong contender for the fourth spot.

The 36-hole team match will include representatives from B.C., Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario, Quebec Nova Scotia and New Brunswick-Prince Edward Island, and will be played Aug. 27 as part of the qualifying round for the Canadian championships.

Top 32 of the entire field will qualify for the match play event, with the first two rounds of match play the following day (Wednesday), the quarter and semi-finals Thursday, and the 36-hole final Friday.

B.C. carries an admirable past-performance record into this tournament. There has been a B.C. golfer in the final each year for the past eight, and three times B.C. has wound up with the championship.

Brian Copp of Vancouver finished second to George Knudson in 1955 and second to Gary Cowan in 1956. Victoria's Bill Wakeham won in 1957, and Bob Cox of Vancouver was second to Bob Panasiuk of Windsor in 1958.

Until then the competition had been decided on medal play. In 1959 it was switched to match play and Alan Kennedy of Vancouver won from Gordon LeRiche of Montreal. Gordon Robinson of Vancouver lost to Brian Wilcox of Toronto in 1960, and to Terry Campbell in 1961's all-Vancouver final.

Last year Norm Mogel of Toronto defeated Brian McCormick of Kelowna.

Federal-Provincial Parley

Pension Agenda Wide

OTTAWA (CP)—Policy problems as well as technical details of the new Canada Pensions Plan will be discussed with provincial delegations at a conference opening here Sept. 9, if the provinces agree.

Prime Minister Pearson, who issued the invitation last Monday, says the discussions will be "fairly technical," but it is impossible to separate questions of policy from them.

Mr. Pearson's letter of invitation, sent to provincial premiers when they were meeting in Halifax, was made public by his office Thursday.

Chairman of the conference will be Health Minister Judy LaMarsh.

Mr. Pearson told reporters Thursday that if the premiers wish, the question of unemployment can also be the subject of federal - provincial talks at the same time.

The pensions plan includes a government intention to raise basic pensions to $75 a month from $65 for everyone age 70 and over. The government has said it will not separate the $10 increase from the over-all plan.

The contributory retirement pensions would start at the option of the pensioner at any age between 65 and 70. Payments would be available to surviving spouses at any age after 65.

Pilots Get Jobs Back At a Loss

VANCOUVER (CP) — Six Pacific Western Airline pilots fired after they refused to cross the picket line of a striking union, will be reinstated, but at a loss of pay and seniority.

R. J. Moir of Vancouver, chairman of a federal arbitration board, said Thursday three of the pilots would be suspended for 12 months and set back 10 places on the seniority list.

Three other pilots were given a six-month suspension and the same seniority loss. The suspensions are with loss of pay.

The pilots, who are not involved in the strike against PWA, were charged with breach of their contract.

Capt. Arthur Barran, one of the pilots who was rehired, said he was satisfied that the board rendered a fair decision.

Ring Charge Dismissed For Lack of Witness

Failure to prove $5,000 worth of diamond rings had been stolen from Henry Birks Ltd. June 27, brought about dismissal of a case of possession of stolen goods in city magistrate's court yesterday.

Magistrate William Ostler pointed out the prosecution had not produced a witness that could identify the 38 rings used as exhibits in court as rings that were in the store window on the night of the robbery.

Court heard diamond department employee Mrs. Grace Hill identify the exhibits. Rings identified were marked with store tags and had numbers inscribed in the actual ring shank, Mrs. Hill told the court.

Every night about 5 p.m. expensive rings are taken from the window and rings valued at $200 or less are substituted, Mrs. Hill said. She said the rings were arranged by someone who did the display work for the store.

The rings were neatly exhibited in a small wooden box which Mrs. Hill said she had seen last week for the first time.

Two city detectives identified Ernest E. Dunstan, 80 San Jose, as the man in whose possession they found the box containing the 38 diamond rings.

Dets. Alex Briggs and Angus Munroe spotted the man at Pandora and Douglas and searched him after receiving a telephone message at their office.

The man had a box containing 38 diamond rings in the waistband of his trousers behind his back, Det. Munroe told the court.

Det. Munroe said the man had been drinking heavily and was belligerent. He was arrested and taken into custody.

SMASHED WINDOW

A photo showing a smashed window of Henry Birks store, identified by the Birks staff members as the "diamond window" was introduced as an exhibit. Det. Napoleon Bouchard, who attended to take the picture, said the store window was smashed and the display jumbled.

Magistrate Ostler ruled the prosecution had not introduced a witness who was responsible for putting the rings in the window on the night of the incident and dismissed the charge.

He Missed —Tot Out Window

VANCOUVER (CP) — Edwin Wiebe, a 208-pound, 26-year-old laborer, was sentenced Thursday to three months for hurling a two-old-boy out of a second-storey window.

Wiebe pleaded guilty to a charge of assault causing bodily harm but told the court he had intended to throw the boy onto a chesterfield. He said he missed, and the child went through the window, landing on a sloping roof.

Trespass Notice For Last Sealer

City hall will serve formal notice on the last of Victoria's sealers that he is trespassing in mooring the last whaling ship alongside the city garbage wharf.

Elderly Max Lohbrunner lives aboard the Elm, moored to one of the iron rings used many years ago by sealing ships when they tied up at the foot of Herald Street. Alongside, between the Elm and the city garbage wharf, Mr. Lohbrunner keeps the Green, last of the whaling ships which used to operate out of Victoria.

City council has been asked to support a move to have old age pensioners exempted from the payment of school taxes.

A letter from the provincial executive council of the B.C. Old Age Pensioners' Organization was received at city hall yesterday, asking the council to support a resolution submitted by North Vancouver to the annual convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities.

The request will be discussed on Aug. 15.

Final meeting of the Pioneer 60-Up Club, formed in 1946 by Dr. Henrietta Anderson, was held at Cordova Bay Thursday.

The meeting, attended by about 80 people, was a last get-together for the club, and was held at McMorran's, Cordova Bay Road.

Dr. Anderson said the club was disbanding because of falling membership since the opening of the Silver Threads Centre.

"Seven or eight years ago we had an enrollment of 180, and more on a waiting list, but recently we haven't been getting enough out to meetings to make it worth while renting a hall.

"Our enrollment now has fallen to about 50, so we decided to close the club," she said.

Fate of the mysteriously damaged trees on Dallas Road near the Holland Point yacht pond will not be known for about a month.

Acting city parks administrator Cliff Bate said yesterday it would be a month before it is known whether or not the two damaged trees survive.

Nations Pledge Word

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In moving and historic ceremonies, representatives of 31 nations paraded through the State Department Thursday to sign the treaty that pledges their countries and the Big Three from conducting nuclear tests in the atmosphere, in outerspace and underwater.

Ambassadors, ministers and charges d'affaires put down their names one after another on this rare occasion of international amity where at times the smaller nations stole the show from their bigger neighbors.

"A triumph of reason and patience," said New Zealand's Ambassador, George R. Laking, with a brief eloquence that few others matched as he pledged his government's observance of the treaty.

19 COUNTRIES

At noon Wednesday, 19 countries had expressed their intention to sign the treaty Thursday. By night, another seven had joined them. As the ceremony got under way still another five countries hastened to ask for an opportunity to participate.

Communist countries joined with capitalists, black with white and yellow and the varying shades of race and creed in between to join a document which all hoped would one day remove forever the danger of contamination of the atmosphere and the world's food and water by radioactive fallout.

FIRST TO SIGN

Australia's ambassador, Sir Howard Beale, was the first to sign, which all agreed was only fair in view of the fact that Australia was the first country to announce its intention to accede to the treaty originally negotiated between the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union.

The arms race, he said feelingly, is "devouring our resources at an increasing rate and is a race that prepares us for a war that no sane man can want, and in which there can be no victory."

Beale then said that Australia is proud to have been the first to declare its desire to sign.

Dahlias Added To Glads

Addition of dahlias to the Victoria Gladiolus and Dahlia Show to be held today and Saturday has proved to be very popular.

"With advanced registrations for the show and the response from the many dahlia growers in the city, indications are that this will be the best attended show ever to be held," said Mrs. B. A. Setchell, secretary-treasurer.

COOL WEATHER

"With the cool weather we have had during the growing season, the gladiolus and the dahlias will be at their peek and the flowers should be excellent," she said.

Show will be opened by Mrs. Brian Whitlow today at 2:30 p.m.

Show will be open from 2 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Friday and from 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Saturday.

Judging will take place prior to the opening of the show Friday.

20 AWARDS

There are 20 special awards for gladiolus and dahlias and presentation of these awards will be held at 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

Show will close with an auction of the blooms to be held at 9:30 Saturday.

Tea and refreshments will be served both days.

Trip-Taker Denies Break-In

Travel-loving former gas pump attendant Curtis Till, who pleaded guilty a week ago to robbing his employer, was back in magistrate's court yesterday on a breaking and entering charge.

Till pleaded not guilty to breaking into Mowat Bros. at Ganges on Salt Spring Island, elected trial by judge and jury and was remanded to Aug. 20 for preliminary hearing.

He will be sentenced Aug. 15 for robbing Morrison Motors.

'Moderate,' Says Minnesotans

Park Wonderful, Sky Blue

Only Spoiled Victorians Think It's Hot

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

Some spoiled Victorians may have bellyached about Thursday's heat, but tourists from places where it really gets hot were generaly enthusiastic about it or, at worst, philosophical.

Thursday, the hottest day so far this year, a not untypical remark came from Linwood Beck of Fergus Falls, Minn., one of a number of tourists a reporter interviewed on a ramble around the Causeway and through Beacon Hill Park:

"I guess this is a real heat wave for you," Mr. Beck said. "But it's real moderate for us. We just hit beautiful weather here." He said it gets a lot hotter—and, at other times, mighty cold—in Minnesota.

He said he and his wife and two sons, 14 and 3, crossed into Canada at Winnipeg 10 days before and had not met any "real hot weather" while they motored across Canada.

Another one who said it gets a lot hotter where he comes from was Joseph Berthot of Niagara Falls, N.Y. "This is really wonderful, I'm telling you," he said as he lounged in Beacon Hill Park. "I think this is the most beautiful park we've ever been in."

If some visitors were happy it was not too hot, a smaller group was happy about how hot it was. Among them was the visitor from farthest away interviewed, Capt. Sven Tehler of Sweden.

★ ★ ★

"This is hot for us," he said as he walked through the park with his wife. "It is like one of the most wonderful days in Sweden."

Capt. Tehler is not, strictly speaking, a tourist. His vessel, the Migolina, is at the west coast taking on a cargo of lumber for Japan.

A young tourist, Miss Nancy Davis of Oklahoma and Washington, D.C., in Victoria on a brief side-trip in her trans-continental tour, was so impressed by the weather she booked a room at the Empress although she hadn't planned to stay.

"It's so tremendous to get blue sky," said the National Geographic Society employee who has recently been in overcast San Francisco on her vacation trip. She said Thursday's Victoria weather was "refreshing" after the heat and humidity of Washington, D.C.

★ ★ ★

It wasn't quite as cool as one tourist would have liked it.

"We came to the west coast to get cooled off," said H. L. Kendrick of Farmington, New Mexico, who was here with his wife and two daughters, 7 and 10.

He admitted Thursday's weather was some relief from New Mexico, where the temperature ranges between 37 below and 105 above during the year.

Two Calgary people, found relaxing in the shade in different parts of the park, found the weather just like home. C. P. Roth said today in Victoria felt like an 80 or 85-degree day in Calgary, when the radio said the actual temperature was considerably lower.

★ ★ ★

But another Canadian found the weather quite a relief.

"You couldn't wear this black sport coat in Toronto," said Toronto toy company executive Jeffrey Smith, on a day's pleasure trip to Victoria while in Vancouver on business.

May Have Been Set

Police Check On Two Fires

By JACK FRY

Saanich police were investigating yesterday—on the hottest day of the month—the possibility that two fires were deliberately started in bush land atop rocky Peacock Hill.

Firemen had just returned to the fire hall from a blaze on one side of the rocky knoll near the corner of Tolmie Avenue and Cook Street when a second report came in about a fire on the opposite side of Peacock Hill.

"There are a lot of houses in that vicinity and the fire came close to several of their yards," said assistant fire chief Tom Moss.

SERIOUS BUSINESS

"Police are checking out the possibility that the fires were started. This is serious business—the grass and bush are tinder dry," he said.

Meanwhile, Saanich fire chief Joseph Law said that if today is as hot as yesterday was, all yearly fire permits issued by his department will be cancelled — with the exception of incinerators which people can use the year round.

People in the Prospect Lake area where there are no fire hydrants should be especially careful of fire, Chief Law said.

TEMPERATURES SOAR

Temperatures in downtown Victoria yesterday soared to the mid-80s, while an official reading of 78.2 degrees was recorded at the weather office on Gonzales Hill.

On the outskirts of Greater Victoria, Langford had no bush fires yesterday. But Colwood fire chief Richard Emery said his department has been having trouble with people leaving beach fires burning at Esquimalt Lagoon and nearby Park Drive.

Fraud Case

$10,000 Bail Ordered

Bail of $10,000 was set for a Portland businessman appearing in Saanich magistrate's court yesterday on a charge of fraud in connection with vending machines.

Crown prosecutor Jack Gatehouse called for $20,000 bail to be set as the accused, Robert Caplan, would likely be facing other charges ranging between 1961 and the present. He added Caplan was on his way out of Canada when he was apprehended.

NO REASON

Regarding bail, defence counsel Alan Bigelow argued his client was a legitimate businessman used to living in comfort with his family. There was no reason to believe he wouldn't appear, he said.

Caplan is charged with defrauding Kenneth John Howe of Victoria of $1,950 through misrepresentations in connection with vending machines.

Details were not disclosed by police.

RESERVED ELECTION

Mr. Bigelow reserved election for Tuesday and asked that the crown supply particulars of representations alleged in the charge.

Police said last night they are continuing their investigations.

Traffic Death Accidental

COURTENAY—A verdict of accidental death with no blame attached to any living person was returned by a coroner's jury here Thursday, enquiring into the traffic death of nine-year-old Elizabeth Leslie Gill who was knocked down Aug. 5 by a car driven by Peter H. Lloyd.

Can't Get Away from It

It's Like Living In Smoke Stack

By TED SHACKLEFORD

A Victoria woman who sold her family home on Gorge Road and moved to the Island Highway to escape the smoke and fly ash nuisance has found herself in an area with still more air pollution.

"I moved from the Gorge Road. I thought I was getting away from the cinders, but this is worse than Gorge Road ever was," Mrs. Norma Pendray Wilson, 180 Island Highway said last night.

"This is like living in a smoke stack."

Island Highway residents in the section north of the Craigflower Bridge to the Four Mile House, agreed with Mrs. Pendray vehemently.

They told of problems and instances which backed their claims.

Mrs. Doris Beeston, 145 Island Highway, leaned on the balustrade of her front steps while commenting, then stopped as she realized what she had done and showed the Colonist reporter her forearm.

Smeared with Ash

It was liberally smeared with fly ash from wrist to elbow—fly ash which had fallen on the balustrade.

Most of the comments came from housewives but Tom Ord, owner of the Greenwood Motel, had a typically male comment.

"It's bloody awful," he said.

When the Colonist checked the area there was a strong smell of burning wood and a distinct blue smoke haze. Residents complained that the smoke was so bad yesterday morning they couldn't see 100 yards.

"Disgusting," "horrible," "terrible" and "dreadful" were the most commonly used adjectives to describe the smoke and fly ash nuisance caused by wood burners from the mill on Songhees Indian Reserve nearby.

The area is outside municipal boundaries and is administered by the provincial government as unorganized territory. Some residents said they had complained about the nuisance; others talked about starting a petition.

Problem Worse

Mrs. Wilson: "I bought this in the winter when the prevailing winds were different. I have two lots on Kingham Place where I planned to build a new house but the problem there is much worse than it is here. I don't know if I will build now or not. It's a rare day that it isn't like this. I was in Vancouver Wednesday and they hadn't a bit of smoke, it was beautifully clean."

Mr. Ord: "There's been more smoke and fly ash this summer than normal. Right in the cabins this morning I found fly ash all over everything. In the winter when there's a low cloud ceiling and a southeast wind blowing you can't hang any sheets outside—they get just black. It's just in the last five years that we've noticed the fly ash."

Mrs. S. W. Turner, 191 Island Highway: "It's terrible. It's disgusting—you can see how it is. If there's any washing on the line when this starts you have it get it in in a hurry."

It's Been Awful

Mrs. Christina Ross, 160 Island Highway: "We don't like it at all—it's dreadful. I was just saying today I swept such a lot off the front verandah and the chairs and everything. It's awful with the laundry. If it rains you get streaks. Really, it's been awful the last few days."

Mrs. Charles MacFarlane, 147 Island Highway: "Horrible! We find it rather suffocating—it's hard to breathe. And it's terrible on laundry—I have to rewash it sometimes. There's quite a bit of fly ash—if we park the car outside overnight it is just covered in the morning. In the winter it's clear, it's just bad at this time of the year but each year it seems to get worse."

Mrs. Beeston: "It's disgusting. I think they should be made to do something about it. We can't sit on our lawn except for the weekends when they don't burn. We look forward to our weekends here. We can't have windows in the house open. We've been here 30 years and it's getting worse each year. This morning we couldn't see the railway tracks (about 100 to 150 yards away)."

All Over Clothes

Mrs. Peter Mathews, 141 Island Highway: "Terrible, it gets all over the clothes. This smoke if full of ash and you can't leave clean clothes or a clean car in it. It comes and goes in spurts. It's bad today. Sometimes you can hardly see next door. There was talk about putting up a petition but I don't know how far it has gone."

Mrs. Ellie Spiers, 2546 Garden, is a Red Cross nurse working at 139 Island Highway: "It bothers my asthma. This morning it was really bad. It was just thick about here, I opened the door and the house got full of smoke. I thought there was a fire here when I looked outside."

Lawrence Wade, 115 Island Highway: "It was worse today than its ever been. It was very, very bad. It made it very hard to breathe. We get a lot of fly ash over here and in an hour the car is covered. This happens about 90 per cent of the time. People have to work, we understand that, but we don't understand why they have to burn all this, often in the middle of the day. There must be some other way."

Keel Laying Set Sept. 5

Keel of the Pacific Naval Laboratory research vessel will be laid Sept. 5 at Yarrows Ltd., the navy announced Wednesday.

The 213-foot ship will be completed late in 1964 at a cost of $4,518,493.

Valiant Off Again

Alan Valiant, the Colonist 50-mile Walkathon winner, and Danny Cousins, 17, who placed fourth last March 30, last night set out in their second attempt to better an 80-year-old record of 121 miles.

Valiant and Cousins started out at 10 p.m. from Tolmie at Douglas, said they plan to walk to Departure Bay, a distance of about 69.3 miles, and back to city hall.

"It's all in the brain," Valiant said last night minutes before setting out. "If that's all right, you can make it."

He and Cousins broke off their first try for the more-than-121-mark Sunday at 39 miles because their feet hurt.

Earl Speakman, 18, who placed third in the Colonist Walkathon, last week claimed to have walked 123 miles—from Victoria to Departure Bay and back to the top of the Malahat.

Pirate Days

Sky-Divers to Sheep

Pirates, sky-divers, sheep-shearers—these will be among the varied fare offered residents and visitors during Salt Spring Island's Pirate Days, today, Saturday and Sunday.

Longest single event is also the first: a salmon derby in which fishermen will try their skill from dawn today until Sunday at 5 p.m.

Today will also see a sheep dog display at 1 p.m. here, and the day's highlight will come at 1 p.m. when Victoria Sky-Diving Club members will plummet from planes into Ganges Harbor.

The day will also see a smorgasbord at 6 p.m. at Ganges United Church, and Sharyn Reynolds will be crowned Pirate Queen and Betsy Quesnel her princess in the evening. Dancing will follow.

Saturday's program includes an 18-hole golf tournament, archery and rifle shoots and Indian canoe races.

At Fulford Hall grounds at 4 p.m. there will be sheep shearing contests, sheep dog displays, a lamb-diapering contest, farmer's market, beef barbecue and clambake, with bingo games and a dance in the evening.

Sunday will offer scuba diving and a spear-fishing contest from 10:30 a.m. in Vesuvius Bay, and boat-racing and water skiing from 1 p.m. in Welbury Bay.

Subdivisions Boost Tax Bill

Saanich farmers are being forced to pay higher land taxes when subdivisions crop up near their farms, it was learned this week.

They are subdividing their farms and moving elsewhere, to escape the higher taxes.

It is a merry-go-round of rural subdivision, higher taxes nearby, more subdivision and more high taxes for the next farmer.

The situation came to light Tuesday, when Saanich municipal assessor Jack Lindsay told the lands and planning committee that assessments are boosted on farms adjacent to subdivisions because the farms are then more potential for subdivision.

The rapidly increasing breakup of Saanich farm land was brought to committee's attention by municipal planner Antony Parr, who is working on a residential development study which will take several more months to complete.

Mr. Parr received committee backing on an interim measure which—if approved by council—will serve as a stop gap in the farm-to-subdivision process until the comprehensive residential report is completed.

Under Mr. Parr's proposal, subdivision of land in rural areas would be placed in council's hands and public hearings would have to be called before a farmer could dispose of his land in this manner.

Mr. Parr said in his submission to committee for the interim measure, that "it will overcome the artificial pressure to subdivide placed on rural residents by increasing taxes."

Other advantages which he thought the measure would bring:

- "It will encourage the build-up of population in areas which can be serviced, and by spreading the cost of such services over a greater number of taxpayers.
- "By requiring a public hearing to rezone farming land to permit small lot development, it will give the council and the public an opportunity to give consideration to the proposal. This is of particular importance to adjoining property owners.
- "It will lessen the increasing conflict between the keeping of animals and residential development.
- "It will assist in preventing a worsening of the health situation in the vicinity of Prospect and Elk Lakes.
- "It will give council more control over the extension of services to the undeveloped parts of the municipality where rural type services are quite adequate for existing low-density development."

Around the Shops

New Products Push Out Old

By JILL ARLETT

A flurry of sales and introductory offers has caught my eye in several downtown and district stores.

All the bargain tables and the shelves displaying new products in the various stores I noticed have one thing in common: New glamorous products are pushing out the old ones.

Yet for the shopper both old and new are worth looking at.

Here's why.

★ ★ ★

New in cosmetics is a well-known brand lipstick now claiming to be windproof and sunproof. Priced at $1.00 a tube ($1.25 for refills), it's a creamy-looking lipstick designed to stop lips from chapping or getting sunburnt. Colors are all new too—ranging from pale orange to dark rose.

★ ★ ★

Colognes and shampoos reduced to clear in one store have the following reductions:

Large bottles of delicate scented colognes are now $1.39 from $2.25; men's cologne is 89 cents; shampoos are one-third off the regular price; after-shave lotion is reduced from 65 cents to 45 cents, and liquid baby cream is 49 cents.

★ ★ ★

A new item which has been a big hit with people on the receiving end of "get well" cards is a 50-cent booklet solemnly entitled "Hospital Coloring Book."

As the title suggests, the book features carefully drawn illustrations of what the patient is to expect while in hospital, and (naturally) how to color the picture.

Mammoth-sized cards will undoubtedly provide the patient a few laughs—at the expense of those who are trying to make him well.

Other sale items are floral plastic coverings — rainproof and washable—for garden furniture, all with a 20 per cent discount. Prices (not including the discount) are $4.95 to $7.95 for padded covers for a chaise longue; $3.95 for a round garden table cover with zipper for easy removal, and $2.95 for padded chair cushions.

Already reduced to $24.88 are handsome six-foot umbrellas made of the same patterned material. Colors include pink, yellow and blue.

★ ★ ★

An old favorite, but a fairly recent arrival in the city, are genuine white Levis with the real cowboy cut. From San Francisco, they're priced at $6.95 in one downtown store.

★ ★ ★

Linguistic Expert Receives $40 a Day

By HAROLD Y. JONES
Copley News Service

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina—Lydia Hunt, 30, is one of a travelling troupe of linguistic experts who contribute to the success of international conferences in the Western Hemisphere.

Slight, bright and cheerful, she is a simultaneous interpreter. She speaks English (born in New Orleans), Spanish (raised in Argentina) and French ("I studied it") fluently.

Her specialties are going from either Spanish or French into English and from English or French into Spanish. For this skill, Miss Hunt and her colleagues earn an average of $40 a day plus $18 a day for expenses at a wide variety of conferences all over Latin America.

The pay is high, but so are the standards. Simultaneous interpreters must be able to listen to a speaker and deliver his words in another language just as fast as he is speaking in his own.

Conferences on hemisphere economic and political matters generally last 10 to 14 days. Usually they are conducted in four official languages—English, Spanish, French and Portuguese, the latter two for delegates from Haiti and Brazil.

Years ago, to assist the delegates in understanding each other in Latin America, conference leaders preferred to bring interpreters in with them, generally from such "pool" cities as Washington, New York or Geneva.

Now the trend is to use local talent. Miss Hunt works with a loosely formed "team" of interpreters who live in Santiago, Chile; Montevideo, Uruguay; Rio de Janeiro, Brazil and Buenos Aires.

Grey-eyed, auburn-haired Lydia Hunt concentrates at her job as a simultaneous interpreter.

She came to Buenos Aires with her parents when she was four Spanish came to her naturally—English at home and at the English school here, and Spanish also at school (all grade school students are required by Argentine law to study in Spanish), and "on the streets."

She returned to the United States in 1952 to attend Bryn Mawr (Pa.) College. She graduated in 1955 with a bachelor of arts in English literature, and in the process learned French.

She went directly to the United Nations and for a year and a half worked as secretary to the Latin American officer of the Technical Assistance Board. After a vacation trip to Buenos Aires, she returned to New York to work as adminstrative assistant to the secretary of the Ford Foundation.

Then in 1959 she came to Buenos Aires for a two-month vacation — and has been here ever since. "I stayed because my family is here and, after all, this is my home," she said.

Between conferences, Miss Hunt works for the Argentine government as a translator and interpreter.

She became a conference interpreter almost by accident. Her job with the government put her squarely between Argentine officials and Americans sent here on temporary assignments to study economic problems.

"They couldn't understand each other," she said, "so I often had to be with them all day, even at lunch, so they could communicate. It was exhausting but a lot of fun, too."

Noting her ability, a friend suggested that she take a test to join the interpreting team. She eventually joined the group and did her first conference interpreting (on stock markets and exchanges) in October, 1961, here.

She has worked several conferences in the last year and a half, but still does not consider herself a professional. "There are a lot of interpreters who are far better than I am and who can handle more languages," she said. "I regard interpreting as a means to an end.

Margaret Rainsford Marries D. L. R. Blake

Margaret Laurie Rainsford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Rainsford, 1112 Finlayson Avenue, and David Leonard Rutherford Blake, son of Mr. F. E. Blake, Mill Bay, and Mrs. D. Blake, Royal Oak, were united in marriage recently in St. Michael's and All Angels Church. Rev. Canon J. Rogers officiated.

The bride, who walked to the altar with her father, was lovely in a floor-length gown of nylon organdy over taffeta. Styled with lily-point sleeves and scoop neckline, her gown featured a front panel of pearl applique. Lily-of-the-valley headpiece held her pearl-trimmed chapel veil in place and she carried a cascade of pink roses. Pearl earrings completed her ensemble.

Miss Ann Rainsford was maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Miss Sandra Rainsford, the bride's cousin, and Miss Sharon Quick, the groom's cousin. The three attendants were dressed alike in pink nylon sheer over printed taffeta gowns styled with bell skirts, fitted waistlines and scoop necklines. Their headpieces were fashioned of the same material as their gowns and topped with veiling.

Flower girls, Miss Susan Rainsford and Miss Beth Whatman, were in white nylon frocks with pink trim, and wore white flower wreaths and pink bows on their heads. All the bride's attendants carried colonial bouquets of white chrysanthemums.

Mr. Wilson Anderson of Vancouver was best man. Ushers were Mr. Dave Gerrand and Mr. Denis Stokes.

For a honeymoon trip to Harrison Hot Springs, the new Mrs. Blake wore a golden yellow wool suit with white accessories. A bronze corsage completed her costume.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Blake will live at 1021 Cook Street.

"I plan to go to the University of California at Berkley to get a master's degree in economics," she said. "That takes money, and thanks to these interpeting jobs, that problem is being solved."

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: We are two 15-year-old girls who disagree about something. Will you be the judge?

Jane says that when a girl is walking down the street and a boy whistles at her, the girl should turn around and say, "Thank you." She claims a whistle is the very highest compliment a girl can get and that she should let the boy know she appreciates it.

I don't think this is very ladylike. I would feel funny doing it. I always keep right on walking and I keep my eyes straight ahead. Who is right, Jane or me?—MISS WONDERMENT.

Dear Wonderment: It is not in good taste to speak to strangers on the street—especially strangers who whistle.

Sometimes a whistle is more than a compliment — it's an invitation. The girl who acknowledges a whistle gives the impression that she is accepting the invitation. So keep walking, Petunia — eyes straight ahead.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are in our 30's. We have raised a fine family and now we want to relax.

Our daughter, Roberta, married outside her religion and has taken the faith of her husband. We did everything in our power to persuade her against it but without success. They have seven children and live in another state.

Every summer Roberta comes with all the kids and spends two weeks with us. After two days we are ready for the booby hatch. On Sunday, the one day of the week when my husband and I want to sleep late, Roberta and the children are bustling around at 7:00 a.m. getting ready for church.

The most irritating thing of all is that I must plan menus to suit them. On Friday they won't eat meat. Believe me, this is a big fat bore.

My husband says this year we should tell Roberta that either she and the kids live as we do or they can stay home. What do you say? — PRE-POOPED.

Dear Pre-Pooped: So you have to open up three cans of tuna on Friday. Big deal.

The thing that really bugs you is that your daughter married outside her religion. Now that she has done so (and produced seven children) why not accept a fairly obvious fact instead of picking at her in an attempt to get even?

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from that nut who wants his fourth wife back. I'll bet anything that letter was written by my ex-husband. I was his fourth wife and let me tell you I wouldn't have the jerk back for all the tea in China.

I was only 17 when I married him — a green, dumb, country kid who believed all his candy-coated lies. When our son was born my husband's first act of paternal devotion was to sell our home and buy a trailer so we could live closer to the bowling alley. Then he could bowl every night instead of only 5 nights a week.

In two years he held the child in his arms twice. He was no father, no husband, no companion, no nothing. So I divorced him and married a wonderful widower with two small children. We are expecting a baby in the fall and I am happy as a clam.—GLAD TO BE RID OF HIM.

Dear Glad: And I'm happy as a clam you wrote. Several readers challenged that particular letter and insisted it had to be phony. I never publish a letter unless I believe it is strictly on the level. Sometimes the jokers fake me out but I don't think it happens very often.

Mr. and Mrs. Somerville To Live in Cumberland

Pink and white gladiolus decorated St. Luke's Church Saturday evening for the wedding of Miss Clarice Ena Gale and Mr. William Terrence Somerville.

Rev. C. E. F. Wolff officiated at the ceremony for the daughter of Mrs. E. Gale, 1270 Basil Avenue, and the late Mr. Gale and the son of Mrs. D. J. Somerville of Cumberland and the late Mr. Somerville.

The bride, given in marriage by her eldest brother, Mr. Frederick Gale, was charming in a street length gown of white nylon over taffeta styled with three-quarter length sleeves and scoop neckline. Sprays of nylon and satin roses trimmed the back of the dress and a cluster of satin roses held her lace trimmed veil. She carried a Colonial bouquet of Rapture roses and carnations and her jewelry was a pearl and silver pendant and matching earrings, a gift from the groom.

Hydrangea blue silk organza dresses were worn by maid of honor, Miss Carol Casilio, bridesmaid, Miss Anita Casilio and junior bridesmaids, Karen and Sherry Gale, all nieces of the bride. They had bandeaux of white flowers in their hair and carried Colonial bouquets of white and blue carnations.

Mr Arthur Somerville was best man for his brother and Mr. William Warns and Mr. Lyle Douglas ushered guests to the pews.

A reception was held at the Newstead Hall where the bride's table was centred with a three tiered cake set in tulle and pink rosebuds. Arrangements of pink and white carnations decorated the table.

Leaving on honeymoon the bride changed to a pale blue linen dress, off-white topcoat, small blue hat and white accessories. Her corsage was of Esther Reid daisies and white carnations. They will live at Cumberland.

Visitors At Sooke

Relatives visiting Mrs. Margaret Anderson, Sooke, were her son-in-law and younger daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Humphries with their children, Marta and Bruce who motored from their Ohio home. Hair Stylist Says:

Men Vainer Than Women

By JOHN DOWNING

TORONTO (TNS)—Hundreds of Toronto men now have their hair "done" by stylists, despite the jeers and "effeminate" charges of their friends. It's the friends who are foolish, according to the stylists.

Men's hair styling here is the greatest thing since hula hoops. There are 14 styling shops listed in the phone book. Many other barbers are now ready to give more than just the standard hair cut.

Despite this, devotees of styling still haven't been able to shake the suggestion that somehow they're not masculine when they submit to the hair net, dryer or curlers.

There's always the fringe friend who is too startled at the sight to joke, and seeks an opportunity to drift away with a mutter that sounds like "Fop!"

If you think this is exaggerated, ask your friends what they think.

I talked to 30 men. Seventeen thought hair styling was not truly masculine. Four had their hair styled and wouldn't change. The other nine didn't see much wrong with it but wouldn't have it done themselves.

Then I had my hair washed, set and styled by Michael French, operator of a school for barbers which since February has trained 70 barbers, at $100 a head, in the mysteries of men's hairdos.

I told some friends. As far as they were concerned, I had slid from he-man to fop in half and hour.

Men I talked to in styling shops said they had similar reactions. But they didn't much care. They have their hair washed, cut and styled, or even have a permanent, for prices from $2.50 up because they think it makes them look better than with a $1.25 cut.

They included doctors, salesmen, garbagemen. There was also the swaggering member of a notorious Toronto motorcycle gang who didn't blush when I found him with curlers in his hair.

Toronto is the hair styling centre of Canada and, according to Mr. French, can show the U.S. a curl or two as well.

Stylists don't think hair history will circle back to the days when a man could stack his ringlets up against any woman's.

"But they'll get more elaborate. Men are vainer than women, and there's no doubt about that," Mr. French says.

Some of the men who volunteer at cut rates to serve as training grounds for his students brought this out. One wondered what temperature of water was best for combing after a perm.

It's the very fact that the hair style requires more attention and more time in the barber's chair—a visit a week is best—that keeps some would-be customers away.

One east end mother has confided to friends that her teenage son is "driving me up the wall because he has to have his hair done before every date." The shop he patronizes, like many others, cuts hair by appointment only.

Mr. French started 15 years ago, in London, working in a beauty shop. "Everything they use, we use. I've just adapted some of the stuff."

So his perm preparation smells of bay rum and the hair nets are brown, not pink.

If you want a mud pack, though, it's the same concoction that's daubed on a woman's face. It leaves your face feeling fine, just a little crimson, tingling gently—somewhat as if you'd just been caught with your hair in curlers.

* * *

Stylists claim they do a better job than a regular barber because they shape the hair to your face and head.

"The customer comes and says 'What can you do for me?' instead of give me this or give me that," Mr. French says.

There are several styles to choose from, most of them smooth cuts with waves of some kind at the front. One style swirls up from the back to the front, vaguely resembling an old Roman helmet plume.

The end result must meet the golden rule of all barbers—even in shops where they do the brush and duck cuts. The customer should look as if he doesn't need a hair cut, but never as if he's just had one.

The man with the new look walks out of the shop and faces the jests of friends. But he'll probably be back; the wife or the girl friend will send him.

WI Booth At Fair

A Women's Institute booth will again be one of the features of the Home Arts Building during the Pacific National Exhibition Aug. 17-Sept. 2.

The booth will feature exhibits as well as demonstrations of pillow lace work, ceramics, quilting and painting for pleasure.

The full-size quilt that will be made during the fair will later be donated to the Children's Hospital.

Judging of a Women's Institute tree fruits contest, for members only, also will be held during the fair. The fruits later will be donated to the Central City Mission.

The Women's Institute is a world organization of women—a constituent of the Society of Country Women of the World—and has a membership of 7,000,000. There are 235 institutes in B.C., with a membership of between 4,800 and 5,000 women.

Garden Notes

Pure Si, Fragile No

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Of all the plants we grow in our garden, I think the most deceiving is the forget-me-not. These flowers look so pure and innocent, so fragile and delicate, yet they reproduce themselves like a bunch of rabbits and they have the constitution of a commando.

I ran across an ancient packet of forget-me-not seeds while cleaning out the drawer of my desk away back in the summer of 1957. It goes against the grain with me to burn or destroy any seeds that might just possibly contain a germ of life, so these were scattered haphazardly in a rough part of the lower garden on the off-chance that they might come up. We have had forget-me-nots coming out our ears ever since.

* * *

Puddles of water will stand for days over the plants during rainy winter weather. The neighbor's children romp all over them; some have seeded themselves in the cracks of the crazy paving and take quite a bit of foot traffic. They have never had any fertilizer at all, and only such artificial watering as comes their way accidentally, yet they thrive on this neglect and abuse, and continue every year to produce their sheets of tiny flowers in baby blue.

We don't even bother to transplant them any more. Whenever we want to get a new patch of them started elsewhere in the garden, we just pull up a handful of the flowering plants by the roots and throw them down carelessly on the soil surface of the new site. The forget-me-not has the happy faculty of ripening and shedding its seeds even after it has been uprooted, and the following spring, where the plants were thrown, we always find a nice batch of seedlings. Strangely enough, some of these self-sown plants have pink flowers instead of the typical sky blue blooms.

* * *

If your neighbor should boast to you that he is using a soil conditioner in his garden which is imported from Ceylon at a cost of over a dollar per pound, don't be overly impressed. His expensive, imported conditioning material is only tea leaves from the family teapot!

Every year, during the growing season, I get quite a few letters asking whether tea leaves are of any value in the garden. They are useful, but hardly more than any other kind of leaves. Besides digging them in to add humus to the soil, tea leaves can be dried off and spread as a mulch on the soil surface between and around your plants, much as you would use peat moss. Soil moisture is conserved and weeds smothered.

Used tea bags are less useful, as they tend to dry into a hard mass, but you can bury two or three of them, soggy wet, down under each plant as you set them out, thereby improving the water-holding capacity of the soil, or they can be rotted down in the compost heap.

Because of their tannic acid content, tea leaves have an acid reaction and are especially useful as a surface mulch around the acid-loving azaleas and rhododendrons. By the same token, they shouldn't be used around the lime-loving carnations and pinks.

* * *

Most of the garden books view with suspicion the use of coffee grounds in the garden because of their oil content, but I am not too sure they are right. All winter long we dump our coffee grounds in a flower bed just outside the back door, and over the years the fertility and texture of that bed has improved out of all recognition. Every spring the accumulation of weathered coffee grounds is dug in, and right now that bed is filled with the best-looking batch of gladiolus I have ever grown.

Could be that the winter weathering leaches out the toxic elements from the coffee.

CHARLES McDOWELL on Statusmanship

Get Ahead of the Joneses

We have with us today Mr. Prentice H. Murkley, the author of the new book, "Why Keep Up With the Joneses?, and he has kindly agreed to an interview.

Q—Mr. Murkley, how would you describe your new book?

A—I would describe it as very good.

Q—What I mean is, what is it about?

A—It is about the futility of keeping up with the Joneses. I say, let's get ahead of them! I have written a guidebook for people who want to set the pace in their neighborhood, who want to achieve superior status and make the Joneses feel terrible. Often it requires a good bit of ingenuity but it can be done if you are willing to concentrate on it.

* * *

Q—Can you give an example?

A—Of course. Take color television, which some of the Joneses are relying on heavily for status these days. Well, if you can't be the first family in the neighborhood to own color television, you can be the first to get rid of it. How simple it is—buy a color set and then trade it in on black and white. Forever after you can say, "Oh, we tried it for a while but . . . well, it seemed so garish."

Q—That has a strong effect on the Joneses?

A—It devastates them. Another thing you can do—this is a crusher—is to be the first in your neighborhood to give up stereo and go back to plain old single-track sound on your record player. Another thing you might well do at about the same time is to give up your membership in the Book-of-the-Month Club and start picking up old music texts and scores in second-hand shops. A certified music-lover who has given up stereo is bound to ascend to a special place in a status-conscious neighborhood.

Q—How about cars? Are cars still important symbols in all this?

A—Very important. You can't beat the Joneses by cutting down to only one car. However, you can get an edge on them by taking pains to have at least one rather ostentatiously old car—not too old, nothing before 1954, I would say. Now, to drive the Joneses wild, have the old car air-conditioned. That ought to fix them.

Q—What about boats? Is it absolutely necessary to have a boat on a trailer in the driveway, Mr. Murkley?

A—That is a complicated question. If the Joneses do not have a boat, it is a good idea to have one and get rid of it before they get one. If they have a power boat, you will need a sailboat to beat them. If they have a sailboat, you would do well to go into another field—build a swimming pool for example.

* * *

Q—What about memberships, Mr. Murkley? Is it necessary to belong to a lot of clubs?

A—No, not if you take night courses and have meetings of discussion groups at your house. Conspicuous self-improvement shames the social butterfly. But, speaking of self-improvement, take care to balance it. A man taking a night-school course in Greek mythology and belonging to the Chamber Music Society should always belong to a bowling league or make a reputation for telling rough jokes, or something. Don't give the Joneses an opening.

'Hooray for Gloucester Carnival'

Spell Cast from Air

GLOUCESTER, Eng. (OFNS) — Henry Blythe, a mesmerist in a pale blue suit and a small black airplane, flew at 1,500 feet over the park here Saturday to conduct what he called the first hypnotic experiment of its kind in the world.

Applying his cosmic forces to a radio-telephone, he made three young men and a woman to whom his voice was amplified on the ground below, run out of a marquee, jump on a platform and shout "Hooray for Gloucester Carnival."

* * *

Blythe's voice, at first soothing, then peremptory, was relayed to the marquee and was heard over a loudspeaker.

A woman who didn't take part in the cavorting slept on a chair, under Blythe's influence, and had to wait until he came back from the airport to wake her up. Her husband looked embarrassed.

Before his flight Blythe gave a small press conference. He is a tall man with thick white hair, a strong brown face and strange blue eyes.

He wore a monocle around his neck on a piece of black ribbon and claimed to be distantly related to the royal family.

* * *

"I've been trying to arrange this experiment for years. The postmaster-general has issued to us the world's first-ever radio-telephone transmission licence for hypnosis from the air.

"The police didn't object to the act so long as we didn't go below 1,500 feet. They also stipulated under the Hypnotism Act, 1952, that no one under 21 shall be allowed in the public marquee.

"I shall be putting on a light blue suit," Blythe said, "which photograps very well. I'm nine-tenths a medical hypnotist, but I'm a very strong tenth a hypnotic entertainer.

* * *

"I've been able to hypnotize since I was a boy. I was particularly dangerous in my teens. I didn't know the power I was using.

"I think this sort of experiment we're conducting today will have practical applications. Perhaps you'll get a combination of the hovercraft and helicopter.

"You'd hover at 200 feet, perhaps with a terrific photograph of yourself on the bottom and your voice going direct to the ground, magnified. And then you could influence people in groups anywhere in the English-speaking world.

* * *

"In Africa, say, with the danger of rising and bloodshed, and they were thinking of taking to their spears and whatever it was. With the speed of planes today you could get there in hours and bring peace where there's strife.

"I've just thought of this. You might even have an hypnotic expeditionary force — a one-man force. I've always been a pioneer.

"One of my ancestors," he said, "was a missionary. He was eaten by cannibals."

"It's a pity he didn't have your powers," a reporter said.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Law Stifles Mother Love

ROME (NANA)—Sophia Loren was doing a mean twist with Marcello Mastroianni on the set of their Yesterday, Today, Tomorrow trilogy in a studio one hour's humid driving from Rome. In one of the three-act segments, Sophia has an illegitimate child with Marcello. And if history repeats itself in real life, Sophia told me, "It will not surprise me too much. I was born to have children, but according to Italian law I cannot marry the man I adore, (Carlo Ponti). I regard him as my husband. And if by chance we should have a child, I will not be sorry" . . . Sophia has her usual busy film schedule. Next, A Shot in the Dark in Paris with Peter Sellers. Then her TV Tour of Rome. Followed by Judith in Israel. "Then a musical which Irving Berlin is writing for me to do in Hollywood. Then Forty Days at Musa Dagh to be made in Turkey," with Omar Sharif. And when I asked her "Why do you work so hard?" She replied, "For me work is a vacation."

* * *

Has anyone here seen Kelly? Grace, that is. Since her return from America, she has been very seldom in the news . . . but I did discover that Prince Rainier had yielded to Charles de Gaulle. Doesn't everyone? Now only bonafide Monacans can live in that land of sunshine and gambling, tax free.

* * *

The reason that Lawrence of Arabia is not popular in France as in the other countries, is that Lawrence hated the French, and they returned the compliment. It was the aim of Lawrence to put Feisal, played by Alec Guinness in the film, on the throne of Syria. And he did, but after a few weeks of precarious balancing, the French kicked Feisal out. Lawrence never forgot or forgave.

* * *

Bette Davis will be arriving in a week to play mother to Horst Buchholz. And the Romans are looking forward to the experience.

A friend here told me that Kim Novak has the strangest fancy. She loves bats. Her bedroom in Dublin where she was making Of Human Bondage, was full of paper bats flying all over the place. Also she insisted on having a house with the ocean pounding on the door. This is impossible in Dublin. But you can see what happens to stars when they usually get their own way.

* * *

When I was last in Paris, I watched William Holden and Audrey Hepburn making Paris When it Sizzles. I've heard all sorts of rumors about the picture, and they are not too good. So I asked someone connected with the films what exactly had happened. "They had too much fun making it," was the surprising answer. "George Axelrod, the writer, and Dick Quine, the director, were always thinking up the most marvelous gags. They'd break each other up, and whenever a celebrity came on the set, they'd rope him or her into the picture for a gag, (This happened with Tony Curtis). The picture is all jokes and very little story. Now it will take a magician to cut the material so that it can turn into a good film."

8 CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to extend our deep appreciation to Dr. Roe and assistants for the many comforting words of sympathy extended during the recent illness and passing of our beloved husband and father, Walter Woodward.
—The Woodward family.

9 IN MEMORIAM

HICKS—In loving memory of an indulgent and devoted husband and father, Frank William Hicks, who left us suddenly August 9, 1962.
One long, lone, saddened year has now passed by,
And still our yearning but beclouds the eye;
For though stern time steals by beyond recall
The memory of your love stays with us all.
—With loving daily thoughts by his wife and daughters.

PERRY—In loving memory of my dear husband Jack Perry, who passed away Aug. 9, 1962.
I have lost my soul's companion
A life linked with my own.
And day by day I miss him more
As I walk through life alone.
—Sadly missed by his loving wife Doll.

CEDAR
SIDING

Nature has endowed the giant red cedar of British Columbia with every quality a homeowner could ask for in a versatile construction material with its "built-in" weather resistance, insulation value, working ease and, above all, inherent beauty.

Western Red Cedar is the traditional choice of architects everywhere, for every application. The attractive grain and warm colors of this fine wood blend beautifully with any home style, modern or traditional—in any setting, urban or rural.

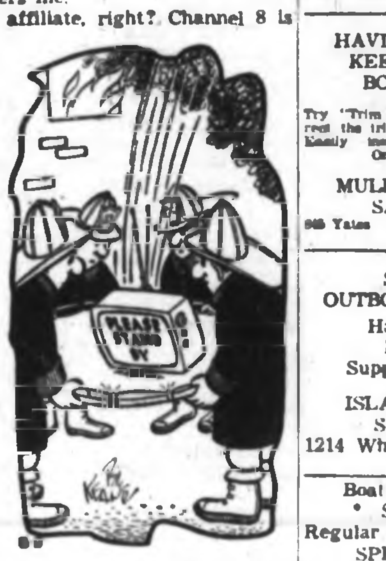
TV TALK

By JIM TAYLOR

Maybe I'm simple-minded or something, but there's just one teensy little detail about the Channel 6-Channel 8 business that bothers me.

Channel 6 is a CBC affiliate, right? Channel 8 is a CTV affiliate, right? And the CBC and CTV networks are supposedly arch rivals, right?



Then would someone kindly explain how Channel 6 can now carry shows from both networks? Or has there been some sort of network partnership?

Frankly, I could care less whether Channel 6 belongs to the CBC, CTV or the local chapter of the Boy Bird Watchers Society. But the way it's been handled has been strictly bush league.

Out at CHEK, the people responsible for providing program listings are going nuts trying to keep up with changes on which they haven't been informed.

And as far as depending on our newspaper listings for an accurate picture of what's showing on Channel 6, forget it. Our listings are only as good as the station can make them, and the station is as confused as anyone.

Channel 8 claims that Channel 6 will now be supplied with the best of the Channel 8 programs as well as the best of Channel 6. But apparently that doesn't include Canadian football games, which will be carried on 8 (which you can't get here without an antenna arm) and not on 6.

"We'll be carrying the games the CBC carries," explained someone at CHEK. "But the time the games will be carried on Channel 8 clashes with time the CBC has on our station."

Now come on, fellas, fess up. Is this a CTV station, a CBC station, or an independent station with its hands tied? I'll tell you a little secret, too: Judging from phone calls, your viewers are getting sick of the whole mess.

NOT CABBAGES OR KINGS,
But many, many other things.
You may find a perfect gift
For friend or home, to mend a rift;
A picture frame or window pane,
Some things do not have a name,
Be you either girl or boy
You will find fun, perhaps some joy.
So much stuff we need a hall,
When you're free on us please call.
Antique pans to keep you warm,
It may get cold if there's a storm;
A beautiful, mirrored, lovely bar,
Gleeson would say Har De Har, Har!
Lots of brass and silver, too.
May be just the thing for you;
So if you think this is a gas
We will give you a free pass.
First find something you can buy,
See strange things before your eye;
See something you have never seen;
A trip through the Oriental Museum.
This is the place of great renown
In the heart of Chinatown.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

Half the Italian players who recently eked out a narrow World Championship victory over the U.S. rely on the complicated Roman system. This embodies the canape principle, in which short suits are bid ahead of long suits. Today's deal shows an exaggerated example of canape at work.

Vul: E—W

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♣	Pass	2 ◊
Pass	3 ♣	Pass	3 ◊
Pass	3 ♡	Dbl.	3 ♠
Pass	4 ♣	All Pass

Opening lead: Heart ace

In the Roman system used by North-South, one club is convenient. A player with a long club suit and a normal opening bid is required to bid a short suit, if necessary, a three-card suit. South was forced to bid his spades, no doubt with enthusiasm.

If the vulnerability had been reversed, West might have overcalled with two hearts, a bid which would have obstructive value. But at this score an overcall would have been unsafe.

If North had chanced three no trump instead of bidding three spades, he would probably have scored a game. It might be beaten by a heart lead from East and a high spade return from West, but even then, in view of West's failure to overcall, North would probably decide to play East for the spade ace and would hold up the king to block the suit.

West led the heart ace and a second heart. Declarer played king and another diamond, but West trumped and led the heart jack. Declarer ruffed and had to play ace and another club. East won and got out with his last club. South won and led a spade, on which West dropped the eight. Declarer ducked in dummy, endplaying East, and was down two. It would have been down three if West had played a higher spade than the eight.

In the other room, the U.S. played at three clubs, just made, and gained 5 IMPs.

SCHOOL DISTRICT No. 62 (SOOKE)
VOTERS' LIST

Qualified persons, other than property owners and other than those resident-electors and tenant-electors who have filed the confirmation of qualification provided for in Section 60 (3) of the Public Schools Act, wishing to have their names entered on the List of Electors for 1963-64 must file the necessary declaration with the Secretary-Treasurer, School District No. 62 (Sooke), 2227 Sooke Road, Victoria, B.C., from whom declaration forms may be obtained, NOT LATER THAN 5:00 p.m. Friday, August 30th, 1963.

The following persons, in addition to property owners, are qualified to have their names entered on the List of Electors.

RESIDENT-ELECTORS—British subjects of the full age of twenty-one years who are resident and who have resided continuously for not less than six months within the school district immediately prior to the submission of the declaration provided for in Section 60 of the Public Schools Act, and whose names are not entered on the list of owner-electors.

TENANT-ELECTORS — British subjects of the full age of twenty-one years and corporations which are and have been continuously for not less than six months immediately prior to the submission of the declaration provided for in Section 60 of the Public Schools Act, tenants in occupation of real property within the school district and whose names or the names of which are not entered on the list as owner-electors or resident electors.

CORPORATIONS are not automatically placed on the list and those Corporations qualifying as owners of property or as tenant-electors must also file a written authorization under the seal of the Corporation naming some person of the full age of twenty-one years who is a British subject to be its agent on behalf of such Corporation. Such authorization shall be filed with the Secretary-Treasurer not later than August 30th, 1963.

Names, other than property owners, will not be carried forward from last year's list without a person making a new declaration or filing the confirmation of qualification in accordance with the foregoing.

Border Death Zone

Heroic Doctor Saves Fugitive

HELMSTEDT, Germany (UPI) — "I could not let the man bleed to death out there. A human life was at stake. I am a doctor."

So Dr. Ernst Stoeter calmly removed his coat, crawled 90 yards through barbed wire into a Communist border dragged back to safety a fleeing criminal shattered by a mine blast.

West German police said Thursday the 26-year-old man had fled on foot from West Germany into East Germany with his 21-year-old wife and four-year-old daughter to escape a prison term on a morals charge.

STEPPED ON MINE

But 30 yards into Communist territory—on the edge of the East German border anti-refugee strip—he stepped on a mine.

The blast shattered his right leg and fragments injured his wife. His wife, however, managed to drag him under a bush in fear the blast would alert East German guards, and fled back to the West with her daughter for help.

The fugitive's mangled leg had to be amputated later. Police said he fled with his family only minutes before he was scheduled to be picked up at his home to begin an 18-month prison term.

Victoria Boy Wins Award

A Victoria high school graduate was one of three British Columbia students to win $500 scholarships to the University of British Columbia, it was announced Thursday.

Eric Neil Gelling was the Victoria winner, along with Peter Wyatt Smith and Robert L. Tapping, both of Vancouver.

SCHOOL DISTRICT No. 63 (SAANICH)

LIST OF ELECTORS

(Rural Area Only)

The 1963 List of Electors for School District No. 63 (Saanich) is now being prepared for the Rural portion of the School District.

There are three types of Electors:

Owner-Electors—Those who have property registered in their name and who otherwise qualify under the Public Schools Act. Spouses of Veterans purchasing property under the Veterans Land Act may be eligible to be listed as an Owner-Elector. Check with your V.L.A. Director. Persons who have purchased property during 1963 and have a title from the Land Registry Office should check to ascertain if their names are on the List of Electors. August 31st, 1963, is the final date for the inclusion of your name on the List of Electors if you have recently acquired property in the Rural portion of this School District.

Tenant-Electors and Resident-Electors of the rural area of School District No. 63 (Saanich) are reminded that the Public Schools Act provides facilities for such persons to have their names added to the current year's voters' list.

It is the responsibility of the said persons to file the necessary declarations at the School Board Office, Third Street, Sidney, B.C., on or before 5 p.m. August 30th, 1963.

Tenant-Electors and Resident-Electors whose names are on the current year's voters' list are entitled to vote on any matter presented by the Board to the electors of the School District other than voting on money bylaws.

Dated at Sidney, B.C., this 5th day of August, 1963.

A. G. BLAIR,
Secretary-Treasurer.

No Arbitration for Arbitrator

VANCOUVER (UPI) — Mr. Justice Victor Dryer of the British Columbia Supreme Court Thursday was on the eve of finding himself being an arbitrator with nothing to arbitrate.

He was appointed by Federal Fisheries Minister Robichaud and British Columbia Labor Minister Leslie Peterson as a one-man arbiter in the West Coast's salmon fishing strike.

Hearings were scheduled to start here Friday but labor and management were unable to agree on the scope of fulfilling his charge.

A stop-gap settlement in the strike was made last weekend when the 10,000 fishermen and allied workers agreed to go back to work, after being idle for three weeks, while a basis for arbitration was determined. Fishing continued on Thursday.

Since that time neither side has been able to agree on the scope.

The union wants its demands heard on the prices of all four species of salmon, plus other fringe benefits. But the fisheries association said the price of pink salmon was the only issue in dispute.

Counsel for both the United Fishermen and Allied Workers and the Fisheries Association of British Columbia met informally with the judge. Neither had a plan to snap the deadlock.

Indications were that neither side was about to relax its stand.

A union spokesman said the union was considering approaching the two cabinet ministers and asking them to tell Mr. Dryer to make a decision himself.

Malayans Resent Canadians' Remarks

KUALA LUMPUR (UPI) — Government officials expressed indignation Thursday at remarks by two Canadian doctors that Malaya lacked a good medical service.

A ministry of health spokesman said that the foreign office has been asked to take up the matter with the Canadian government through the Canadian high commission here.

Canadian doctors Claude H. Vipon of Ottawa and Guy Screech of Vancouver were reported to have said upon their return home that the Malayan government failed to provide them with assistance in improving Malayan medical standards.

'Beautiful B.C.' Plates Will Be Blue on White

VANCOUVER (CP)—Motor vehicles branch officials say B.C.'s 1964 licence plates will bear the words "Beautiful British Columbia."

They will have blue numerals on a white background, the reverse of this year's color scheme.

Lease Instead

Sale Unlikely For Hospital

City finance committee yesterday proposed extending the lease on the Chinese Hospital for up to 10 years, rather than selling the property outright for $12,500.

The committee's recommendation will be considered by a meeting of city council Thursday, but is expected to be adopted without discussion.

Decision not to sell the city-owned property to the Chinese Hospital Society was made on the recommendation of new city manager Dennis Young.

"It seems to me that while we could use $12,500, in future years the property will be worth a great deal more than that," Ald. Austin Curtis commented.

"We have no idea what that would be worth in 10 years' time."

Mr. Young commented that completion of the city's centennial square plan would increase property values in the whole area.

Apartment Zoning Requested

Two rezoning applications to permit construction of apartment buildings were received at city hall yesterday.

Robert J. Mawson, 885 Parklands Drive, applied to have the old city waterworks yard, bounded by Pandora, Chambers and Balmoral, rezoned to permit apartment use.

Second application was made by C. E. Pullan of Island Homes Ltd. to have land at 1623 Richmond rezoned to allow construction of a two-storey building holding 10 apartments.

Island Students Pass Accounting

Ten Victoria and four other Vancouver Island students were among 79 in B.C. who passed the 1963 primary accounting and auditing examination of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of British Columbia.

They were Patrick Aldous, William Evans, Roderick Genler, Peter Hall, Warren Lowe, Ronald McMicking, John Mace, Richard Scherr, W. M. Trenholme, Richard Zala, all of Victoria; Robert Ballam, Port Alberni; Edward Bancroft, Courtenay; Phyllis Salmark and Dennis Van Shaik, both of Nanaimo.

RUSSIA TODAY

Who Cuts Whose Throat?

By ALAN HARVEY
Fourth of a Series

MOSCOW (CP)—After all the heavy thinking, one word may explain old Mother Russia.

For years, experts sought to solve the Soviet puzzle. Winston Churchill, in a classic phrase, spoke of a riddle, a mystery, an enigma.

And yet some offer a one-word solution—under-development.

The idea is that this leviathan among lands, despite striking progress in the physical realm, is still politically primitive, still back with the underdeveloped two-thirds of mankind.

Theorists draw a distinction between Western rule of law and the autocratic, absolutist traditions of the regulated society that is Russia.

After centuries in which freedom, in Tennyson's words, slowly broadened down from precedent to precedent, Europe and North America evolved a sense of compromise, a respect for human values and individual dignity, a tradition of free speaking and tolerated dissent, an instinct for gradual rather than violent development.

Night of Czars

While this was taking place, Rusia endured centuries of isolation, cut off from the West. Under the Tartars and Mongols and during the long night of the Czars, she missed the liberalizing influences of the Reformation and the Renaissance.

For more than two centuries starting in 1240, Russia was a series of principalities within the Asiatic orbit of Genghis Khan, Tamerlane and their descendants. The writer Gorky claimed that physical violence, cruelty and autocracy were a Russian legacy of the Asiatic invasions.

Another event that helped shape modern attitudes was the religious split that brought Russia under the Greek Orthodox Church, with its Byzantine traditions, while the West went the way of Rome.

Rigid, Corrupt

"Blame Byzantium if today one-fourth of the territory of the Soviet Union is closed to outsiders," said a Western diplomat, attributing much of present-day secretiveness to the Orthodox mystique. Historians say the political despotism centred in Constantinople was sustained by a rigid and often corrupt hierarchy.

Russia introduced feudalism about the time the West was getting rid of it. Its 20,000,000 serfs were liberated only in 1861 and the nation was without a professional Bar until 1872.

The theory, in short, is that history holds the key to human conduct.

"Russia is trying to telescope the time machine," a Russian-speaking analyst said. "She is trying to do in years what we did in centuries.

"She follows a zig-zag course, oscillating between relaxation

JFK's Baby In Chamber

BOSTON (AP)—An enormous breathing device—the only one of its kind—was put to use Thursday to aid the baby son of President and Mrs. Kennedy.

One-day-old Patrick Bouvier Kennedy's condition was listed as improved but still serious.

Ship Recalled

'Bomb' Halts Ferry

NANAIMO (CP) — The government ferry Queen of Tsawwassen returned here Thursday after a phone call to toll authority officials saying there was a bomb on board the ship.

Thirty-three RCMP officers searched the ferry for more than 2½ hours.

The 115 cars aboard were unloaded and searched.

In addition, all foot passengers and every member of the crew had to come ashore.

FULL LOAD

The ferry had a full load.

Next ferry to leave, the Sechelt Queen (formerly the Chinook), could not accommodate all the left-over passengers.

Those left behind sailed for Horseshoe Bay on the Queen of Sidney at 11 p.m.

Boy's Death Probed In Duncan

DUNCAN — The violent death of a 14-year-old boy in Duncan last night was being investigated by the RCMP.

Police said that Hugh Nesbit died in hospital after being found injured at Genoa Bay Road and Maple Bay Road.

Police were seeking a car, and two Criminal Investigation Detachment personnel were being sent from Victoria to assist in the investigation.

Police said one possibility being investigated was that a car hit the boy and failed to stop.

Finn Freezes 'Hot Line'

HELSINKI (Reuters) — A Finnish construction worker drove an excavator through the Moscow-Washington "hot line" Thursday and broke telecommunications.

The worker was clearing ground for a new highway when the cable was cut. The line was repaired in four hours.

It is expected to be ready for service as an emergency link between Moscow and Washington next month.

British Bandits Get Richest Mail Haul

CHEDDINGTON, England (CP) — A gang of masked bandits ambushed a royal mail train Thursday and staged what was believed to be the world's greatest train robbery.

The pre-dawn holdup, in a lonely stretch of the English countryside, gave them a haul which one official said could amount to £1,000,000 ($3,000,000) in cash and registered mail.

Police and postal authorities first estimated the gang at 30 men. Later a police spokesman said it probably numbered about 15.

BRITAIN JOLTED

The brash and brazen robbery jolted Britain with its massive organization and split - second timing.

Postmaster-General Reginald Bevins cut short his vacation and immediately offered a £10,000 ($30,000) reward for information leading to the gang's arrest.

FAKE SIGNAL

Police with tracker dogs scoured the countryside and threw up roadblocks around Cheddington, 40 miles northwest of London, where the gang struck after faking a red signal to stop the 12-car diesel-powered train at a rural junction.

Of comparable robberies, the biggest cash haul in North America came from the robbery of a United States mail truck last Aug. 14 outside Plymouth, Mass. That loot totalled $1,551,277.

CARRIED ONLY MAIL

The train, en route from Glasgow to London, carried only mail and a staff of 75 postal workers. They were sorting through letters and parcels as the express stopped at the isolated Sears crossing just after 3 a.m.

Fireman David Whitby clambered down from the locomotive to investigate the red signal. Five men, masked by stock-

Bonner to Make Major Statement

A major break in the B.C. Electric impasse is only hours away.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said last night he expects to make a major announcement in connection with the case today.

He refused to elaborate but told a reporter "there'll be lots for you to write about."

He said the development stemmed "from a new direction" and indicated it resulted from behind-the-scenes activity which has been going on for the past two days.

"I can't say anything more at the present time," he said.

Immediate speculation was that the government and the B.C. Power Corporation had arrived at a formula for additional compensation which was acceptable to both parties.

If this is the case, it means government officials and spokesmen for the power company have resolved their differences over the question of BCE earnings since the date of appropriation in 1961.

$193,000,000

In his judgment handed down last week, Chief Justice Sherwood Lett placed a value of $193,000,000 on B.C.E.

British Columbia paid $173,000,000 under the terms of its expropriation legislation.

Following delivery of the judgment Premier Bennett said he was prepared to accept the court's figure.

B.C. Power officials said they would accept it only as the basis for negotiations and claimed it represented the August 1961 value and not current value.

Lett Judgment

Just Where Does B.C. Stand Now?

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Where does B.C. stand 10 days after Chief Justice Sherwood Lett shook the foundations of provincial utility legislation and crumbled the government's massive electrical edifice?

The biggest headaches which the Lett judgment impose on the provincial government are still sorely throbbing.

They come under two general headings: constitutional and practical.

The practical problems are these:

- B.C. no longer owns the B.C. Electric which it expropriated in August, 1961, at an eventual cost of $172,000,000.
- The B.C. Hydro and Power Authority which was created to meld the expropriated BCE with the old B.C. Power Commission does not legally exist.

Equally serious, if somewhat less urgent, is this constitutional problem:

- B.C., as well as other provinces, may no longer have the right to impose any form of regulation upon provincial companies which are subsidiaries of federal companies or provincial companies with extra-provincial activities.

Projected to the extreme, the Lett judgment may mean that B.C. could not force a department store owned by a federal government to collect and remit the provincial sales tax.

It may mean that the Public Utilities Commission no longer has the authority to regulate transportation rates within B.C. of a company which moves shipments to Alberta or the U.S.

First Look

At first glance, during the days immediately after the release of the judgment, its implications left government officials shocked.

Today, after more careful study, they are appalled.

In an effort to bring some order out of the chaos in which the practical questions have left the province, Premier Bennett has launched overtures towards reaching a financial settlement with B.C. Power.

If a settlement can be reached, this will solve the problem of ownership.

Wants Cut

The premier has agreed to accept Chief Justice Lett's evaluation of BCE—$192,828,125 or an increase of about $21,000,000 over what B.C. paid—but B.C. Power says that was the August 1961 value and it wants a cut at the subsequent earnings as well.

Mutual agreement on price, if it comes, does not solve the very real problem of the legal status of B.C. Hydro.

The chief justice held the Hydro Act to be invalid because it lacked substance subsequent to his findings in connection with the expropriation legislation on which it was based.

This can be remedied by new legislation which would re-create Hydro without alluding to the ultra vires acts.

Illegal Entity

The need to reconstitute Hydro in an acceptable manner would seem to be pressing. Already, as a result of it being branded an illegal entity, a Peace power project contractor has slowed down equipment purchases and a chartered bank briefly suspended trading in its securities.

B.C. Hydro is the agent named by B.C. and Ottawa to fulfill Canada's obligations under the Columbia Treaty with the U.S. and it would appear desirable to clear up its status before the province embarks on negotiations with Washington over the price to be paid for downstream benefit power.

Pearls from Peasant of Kremlin

We Both Have Our Woes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "God has given you Adenauer and God has given us some foolish allies too."

"It is like a porcupine that will continue to raise its needles."

This was Khrushchev commenting on the unsolved question of a divided Germany. The Kremlin leader, according to Humphrey, said that a one-sided settlement on terms of either the East or West "would be foolish solutions and would lead to war." He did not mention Berlin specifically.

Humphrey said the Soviet leader also used the simile of a mother trying to teach a child to walk in referring to the possible easing of East-West tensions:

"She doesn't push or hurry him — she permits him to walk in his own time."

"Some who oppose it should be subjected to psychiatric treatment because they are injuring our health."

This was Khrushchev 'on the nuclear treaty which he said "is good." According to Humphrey, Khrushchev commented: "People like it and people follow the doctor's prescription . . . to an ailing society."

And finally, Khrushchev on the prospect of continued ideological differences between Soviet Communism and the free world democratic concept:

"If it is destined that our coffins lie together, they will still take different positions."

CHIEF JOSEPH MODUPE JOHNSON

He'll Fight, Or Else

Paunchy Politico Pulls No Punches

By KENNETH WHITING

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Nigeria's pugilisitic politician was faced with two problems Thursday in connection with Saturday's title fight between middleweight champion Dick Tiger of Nigeria and Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah.

He plans to solve them by:

1. Finding a new rain doctor.
2. Threatening the Nigerian Boxing Board of Control with dismissal.

Chief Joseph Modupe Johnson, 51-year-old cabinet minister with the labor and sports portfolios, announced Monday that a "rain doctor" would be hired to see no showers dampened Linerty Stadium at nearby Badan, during the fight.

Johnson declined to name the rain doctor, but said Thursday:

"We will have to hire another rain doctor in Ibadan so there will be no jealousy. My rain doctor is coming from Lagos and I want no rivalry."

★ ★ ★

Rain doctor or no rain doctor, Lagos was drenched again Wednesday with three hours of heavy tropical rain.

Johnson's other problem arose when the boxing board refused him a licence to fight a preliminary bout on the Tiger-Fullmer card. The six-foot two-inch, 220-pound official startled the sports world a few weeks ago by challenging Jack Toller, a retired professional heavyweight from Ghana, to a four-round match to prove "a man is not finished when he passes 50."

★ ★ ★

Johnson's wife reacted with the statement "he is mad." And the boxing board reacted by declining to sanction the fight.

Ghana's boxing control commission refused the licence for Toller, who also is more than 50, but Johnson says his opponent is due here from Accra today.

"The board has thwarted me so far but if they continue to interfere I shall dissolve them and appoint a caretaker committee."

The battling cabinet minister says he has been keeping in trim by early morning workouts and exercise in his office.

★ ★ ★

The last time he appeared in the ring was to cautiously spar two one-minute rounds with Tiger at the champion's training camp to "show how serious I am."

He was a striking, paunchy figure in a skyblue sweatsuit but he was forced to remove the spiked football shoes in which he arrived at the gym.

"I did not have any others," he explained but his offer to work out barefoot was unnecessary as a pair of gym shoes quickly was produced.

Lions' Edge Big in Statistics But Nine Points on Scoreboard

REGINA — B.C. Lions gave Saskatchewan Roughriders another statistical drubbing Thursday night but a defence which refused to yield in close again made a hero out of rookie - placekicker Peter Kempf as the Lions settled for a 16-7 win in their Western Football Conference opener.

That was what was on the scoreboard. Other statistics showed a total offence for the Lions of 346 yards to 100 for the Riders.

Kempf, who scored 40 points in the Lions' three pre-season games, including all 18 in a win over Ottawa Rough Riders, made the difference with three field goals in three chances and the convert of the only touchdown the Lions managed.

Much improved defensively over the club which took a 40-0 lacing from the Lions in a pre-season game, the Riders were almost completely contained by a good B.C. defence after a spectacular opening play and for the most part were forced to fight a holding battle.

Losers managed only nine first downs, five of them in the first half, and only twice did they manage to put as many as two first downs together.

	P	W	L	F	A	Pts
Calgary	1	1	0	35	27	2
B.C. LIONS	1	1	0	16	7	2
Saskatchewan	2	1	1	35	32	2
Edmonton	1	0	1	14	19	0
Winnipeg	1	0	1	27	35	0

Last night's score: B.C. LIONS 16, Saskatchewan 7 at Regina.
Next games: Monday—Edmonton vs B.C. LIONS at Vancouver; Calgary at Winnipeg.

GREAT GALLOP

After Billy Gray had taken a pitchout and raced 75 yards to the B.C. 13-yard line to set up their only score, the Riders bogged down. In spite of Gray's gain, they ended the first half with only 59 net yards from rushing.

Gray finally got the touchdown, converted by Reg Whitehouse, from the three-yard line.

STOPPED AGAIN

Riders were stopped early in the second half in their own end of the field when Norm Fieldgate made a fine interception. They were stopped again later in the third quarter after getting within 21 yards when Neal Beaumont intercepted, then gained only one yard in three plays midway through the fourth quarter after getting to within 36 yards on Neal Habig's interception.

Gray got only three more yards after his big run and and ace halfback Ray Purdin lost 10 yards in seven carries. Bob Ptacek and M. C. Reynolds, splitting the Rider signal-calling, completed only seven of 21 passes for 66 yards and had two intercepted.

NET 54 YARDS

Another measure of the Rider offence can be gleaned from the fact that their net rushing yardage for the game was 54 yards after their first running play had netted 76.

Lions opened impressively, scoring from 68 yards in seven plays with Nub Beamer going the last yard, then bogged down everytime they got moving again to settle for field goals.

DEVASTATING PAIR

Well rushed, Kapp had an unimpressive night passing but he had Beamer and Willie and they were a devastating pair of runners.

Fleming went for 145 yards in 14 trips, including jaunts of 42, 27, 20 and 18 yards, while Beamer added another 105 yards in 20 carries for a big start in defence of his ground-gaining championship.

Fleming started the sequence which set up the winning goal with his 42-yard romp. Lions got within six yards early in the second quarter, then had to call on Kempf for his first field-goal, from 12 yards.

A recovered fumble, made by Reynolds after being crashed by Tom Brown, gave the Lions the other chance late in the first half. With time for only one more play on a first-down situation, Kempf made it 13-7 from 20 yards.

Fieldgate's interception put the ball in play only 20 yards out. The Lions got one first down and as far as the five-yard line before having to call on Kempf again. He gave them a breathing margin with a sharply-angled 15-yarder which closed out the scoring.

Defeat, before just over 12,000 fans was the first for the Riders, who opened their season with a 19-16 win over the Eskimos in Edmonton Monday. Eskimos play in Vancouver next Monday for the Lions' home debut.

Canada Comes Back Against New Zealand

CP from AP-Reuters

MELBOURNE, Australia — Canada led New Zealand 2-0 and Britain and Australia were 1-1 after the morning's foursomes in the second round of the Commonwealth women's golf tournament today.

Canada suffered a 5-0 defeat Thursday at the hands of Britain with one match halved. Australia beat New Zealand 4-2 in the same day's play. Four singles matches were scheduled for later today.

The results of the morning matches:

Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto and Judy Darling Evans of Hudson Heights, Que., beat Una Wickham and Jean Manyan of New Zealand, 5-3.

Gale Hitchens of Vancouver and Mrs. Betty Stanhope Cole of Edmonton defeated Susan Grigg and Natalie White of New Zealand, 5-3.

Margaret Masters and Judith Percy of Australia, beat Marley Spearman and Frances Smith of Britain, 3-2.

Joan Fletcher and Pat Borthwick of Australia, lost to Julia Greenhalgh and Sheila Vaughn of Britain 3-2.

In Thursday's foursome play, Mrs. Cole and Miss Hitchen lost to Mrs. Greenhalgh and Miss Vaughn 3 and 2.

Mrs. Streit and Mrs. Evans halved with Mrs. A. D. Spearman and Mrs. R. Smith.

In singles, Mrs. Spearman defeated Mrs. Streit 3 and 1, Mrs. Vaughn beat Mrs. Evans 5 and 4, Mrs. Greenhalgh downed Mrs. Cole 6 and 5, and Mrs. Smith defeated Rae Milligan of Calgary 3 and 1.

Giant Killers Swing Big Sticks Knock Off Dodgers, Cardinals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ron Santo and Duke Carmel played the giant killer roles Thursday in the National League for Chicago Cubs and New York Mets.

Santo's 10th inning homer, his second of the day, gave the Cubs a 5-4 victory over Los Angeles Dodgers. Carmel, a Cardinal until July 29, beat his old St. Louis mates with an eighth-inning homer 3-2.

As a result of the defeats of the Dodgers and Cardinals, idle San Francisco Giants edged into second place, and gained one-half game on the Dodgers, whose lead now measures 5½ games. The Cards dropped out of a second-place tie.

New York Yankees continued to roll, beating Washington again 3-1, on a six-hitter by Ralph Terry. Phil Linz started the Yanks on their way with a fifth inning homer off Don Rudolph.

RADATZ LOSES AGAIN

Rocky Colavito's 10th inning single sent Dick Radatz down to his third straight defeat as Detroit topped Boston 6-3. Minnesota whipped Los Angeles Angels 3-0 behind Dick Stigman's five-hitter.

Santo had tied the score for the Cubs with his 19th homer in the fifth after a Dodger home run barrage had routed Bob Buhl and rolled up a 4-3 lead. Santo hit No. 20 off Larry Sherry in the 10th.

Terry had to put down a Washington threat in the ninth when he lost his shutout. Don Blasingame led off the ninth with a double, took third on an infield out and scored on Chuck Hinton's sacrifice fly. Jim King beat out a bunt but Don Lock popped to second for the final out.

Tony Kubek's single, Bobby Richardson's double and Tom Tresh's single knocked out Rudolph in the eighth inning.

In night games, Cincinnati defeated Philadelphia 6-3, Pittsburg blanked Milwaukee 1-0 behind Bob Friend's six-hitter, Cleveland's Dick Donovan shut out Baltimore 2-0 on three hits and Gary Peters won his sixth in a row as the Chicago White Sox downed Kansas City 5-3.

Bill Mazeroski's single and Donn Clendenon's double in the ninth inning produced the Pirates' run and handed Braves' rookie Bob Sadowski the defeat.

Joe Azcue scored both Indians' runs—one on a steal of home in the seventh inning.

Seventeen Islanders Still in Big Match

OTTAWA — Seventeen Greater Victoria marksmen were among 300 to qualify yesterday for tomorrow's final half of the Governor-General's match, considered the toughest of the week-long Dominion of Canada Rifle Association matches.

About 600 of Canada's best service rifle shots entered the competition and were led by Maj. A. H. Smedmore and FO Jack Butterfield, both of St. Thomas, Ont., who both fired 145x150.

Best score by a Victoria shot was a 142 fired by Cpl. Bob Walker of the RCMP, Franie Morse of Canadian Scottish reserve, and Vic Finholm, RCAF, who finished 43rd and 44th, and 53rd, respectively.

ARMY WINS

Bill Metzler of Newport, N.S., won the Letson match, open to competitors not taking part in the interservice match, with 102x105. The army won the inter-services match with 1,136x1,150. RCAF team was second with 1,117, followed by the militia with 1,113.

Quebec won the cadet version of the Queen's match with 626x800, followed by Eastern Command with 609 and Central Command with 608.

Victoria qualifiers in the Governor-General's Match:

48-Bob Walker 142; 66-Francis Morse 142; 88-Vic Finholm 142; 74-C. Hobson 141; 82-Eileen Learoyd 140; 102-Smokey Green 141; D. Keuser 140; 113-Gordon Fraser 140; 146—George Tory 139; 152-R. OUTDOORS

with Alec Merriman

This weekend take the family to your favorite spot on Vancouver Island and you will find fairly good fishing.

Since the big run of pinks tapered off in Sooke to Victoria waters there has been no special hot spot, but everywhere reports fair to good fishing, with tyee fishing just starting.

From Buttle-Upper Campbell Lake Jim Boulding reports good trout fishing, especially for fly fishermen. Gold River tyee fishing is picking up. As scheduled now the road will be open Thursdays and Fridays from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. and Saturdays and Sundays all day, except for Thursday, Aug. 22 when it will be closed. Road is closed other times by Tahsis for bridge repairs and any changes to these dates will be posted at the road entrance. Some minor revisions are expected.

Corky Corbett of Painter's reports good coho fishing on silver-bodied bucktail at Campbell River. Tyee fishing is picking up and there are quite a few pinks around, although it is an off-season year for the east coast.

Earl Brooks of Rod and Reel Resort classes fishing in Shelter Point waters as fair with coho in the seven and eight-pound class.

George Bates says coho fishing has been fair all along the Bates-Little River-Comox area with the Bellbuoy and Cape Lazo hottest spot for four to six-pounders. A few springs are also being taken.

Deep Bay has been good for coho, but many are under five pounds. Sandy Mitchell, King Fisherman Vancouver Island Helicopters trip winner last year, had a catch which included a 31-pound spring at Deep Bay at the weekend.

Murray Cree says there are lots of coho at Qualicum, seven to eight-pounders, and a number of good-sized springs. There is good bucktail fishing for the coho on red and white and light blue flies. Cutthroat fishing at the mouths of the rivers is still good.

Gordon Murphy of Port Boat House reports a few tyee off the island across from Port Alberni and that coho fishing for 10 to 12-pounders has been quite good. Gus Beurling reports Nahmint came on hot for tyee yesterday with five boats out bringing back eight fish, two of them 42-pounders. Herring, plugs and spoons are all getting them.

Claytons has been very good for coho up to nine pounds and some springs up to 30 pounds are being taken.

Cowichan Bay spring salmon fishing is coming into its best period. Early mornings have been best. Fish have been off the camp, but late this week some moved into the weed line.

Andy Davidson reports Sooke fishing has dropped off a little, but fog has hindered fishermen. There are still some humps around and a few coho, seven to eight pounds.

Frank Baker and Frank Elliott has been hitting good numbers of coho and spring salmon right in San Juan Bay at Port Renfrew.

Port Renfrew's spring salmon derby is now under way until Sept. 29; free children's derby is slated for Sept. 21 and coho derby July 13 to Sept. 29. Big prize presentation will be Oct. 5 with $500 in prizes to be distributed.

There has been good spring salmon fishing at Pedder Bay on the rising tide for 12 to 20-pounders. Pedder has a few coho and a few humps still around.

At Becher Bay there is a good run of springs, up to 34 pounds and coho fishing has been fair for up to 15-pounders. Change of tide has produced best fishing.

Humps have fallen off at Oak Bay, but there has been good coho fishing off Trial in the evenings on bucktail flies. Big springs are still at The Gap.

James Island has been giving up good coho fishing.

Brentwood waters have been fairly good for springs, mostly small, and for coho around the five-pound mark. Fish are biting pretty well all day with concentrations around The Boulder, Ricky's Roost, Stone House. Goldstream end of Inlet has been good for springs up to 15 pounds and coho up to six pounds, with the odd humpie showing.

Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association plans its annual big dance this Saturday to "butter up the wives" before hunting season starts. This is the big pre-hunting dance when the wives are treated like queens, because they will be left alone a great deal of the time during the hunting season.

For pre-hunting shooting practice and sighting-in the fish and game range at Esquimalt Lagoon will be open every Thursday evening for club members and every Sunday afternoon for club members and their guests. One week prior to season opening it will be open every evening.

Trap layout at the Goldstream clubhouse will be open every Wednesday evening until Sept. 1, for club members and Sundays from 1 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. for members and their guests.

Imps Even Record

Imperials got four-hit pitching and three home runs at Heywood Park last night to beat McLarens, 11-3, in the third game of the senior men's softball league double loss elimination tournament.

Imperials have a 1-1 record and McLarens are 0-1. They meet again Monday at 6:45, the loser dropping out and the winner going on to play Sooke, which has won its only game.

Darrell Lorimer and Al Robertson hit two-run homers and Tim Walker led off the first inning with a homer for Imperials while Gordie Houston and Glen Langsett checked McLarens. Jim Wilson homered for the losers.

McLarens	010	000	2—	3	4	3
Imperials	202	6X	x—	11	15	1

Hoff Heit, Rod Turner (4) and Jim Wilson; Gordy Houston, Glen Langsett (7) and Bill Peterson.

It's Hockey In August

Hockey films in August? You bet.

Instructional films plus a feature film on the life and career of Gordie Howe will be shown for the Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association tonight at 7:30 at the Labor Hall, Pandora Avenue.

Admission is free and the public is invited.

Last night's score: Vancouver 8 at New Westminster 17.
Next game: Saturday—VICTORIA at Nanaimo.

NEW WESTMINSTER—Victoria Shamrocks and New Westminster, who go through the formalities of a nothing game in Victoria next Monday, will start playing for keeps again here next Wednesday.

Clubs open their best-of-seven, Inter-City Lacrosse League semi-final here on the Wednesday night, and go back to Victoria Friday. Other dates, set on the assumption the series goes seven games, are Aug. 20 in New Westminster, Aug. 21 in Victoria, Aug. 23 in New Westminster, Aug. 26 in Victoria and Aug. 28 in New Westminster.

New Westminster warmed up for the playoffs by whipping Vancouver, 17-8, here last night, with Jack Bionda scoring three goals and assisting on four others. Paul Parnell scored four times for the winners.

Ex-Champs At Throttle

Former champions Dave Cooper and Gerry Sylvester head a strong field for the eighth annual Roy White Memorial 40-lap stock car race, main event of Saturday night's card at Western Speedway.

There will be plenty of competition for the two ex-champs, including point leader Jim Berry and more than 20 others.

Baseball Re-Shaped

CHICAGO (AP) — Baseball's major-minor league executive committee approved Thursday a plan to reactivate the American Association, absorbed less than a year ago in a sweeping reorganization of the minors.

Builders Rest On Their Oars

	W	L	Pct.	GBL

Independents	13	16	.448	8
Athletics	13	16	.448	8½
Builders	10	19	.400	9½

Last night's score: Builders 2, Independents 0.
Next games: Sunday—Transport Workers vs. Athletics (doubleheader), 1 p.m., Royal Athletic Park.

Builders have done all they can to get into the playoffs in the Senior Amateur Baseball League. Now they must wait, and hope for plenty of co-operation.

Builders completed their schedule with a 2-0 shutout victory over Independents last night at Royal Athletic Park, but still trail third-place Athletics by one game. If Builders are to finish third, Athletics must lose at least three of their remaining four games.

Three loses would leave the clubs tied, and losing all four would drop Athletics below Builders and out of the playoffs. Athletics play first-place Transport Workers in a doubleheader Sunday at 1 p.m.

Des Moseley pitched a five-hitter for his shutout while Builders, who could get only four hits off Nick Klinick and Norm Billsbrough, made them count.

Two Win Scholarships

DUNCAN — Government scholarships have been awarded to two top Queen Margaret's School students, Gay Calvert and Rosalind Coleman who reached 91 per cent and 86 per cent respectively in their university matriculation examinations.

The school's Green Shield for languages and th Margaret Thompson Cup for highest mark in any subject will be awarded to Miss Calvert. Her qualification for the shield was 94 per cent in Latin.

Parksville Set for Garden Show

PARKSVILLE — A large number of entries is anticipated for the 13th annual show of Parksville and District Garden Club set for Saturday at the Legion hall.

Flowers, fruits and vegetables will be displayed and the top award for most points in all classes of the show will be the Centennial Challenge Trophy.

Other awards will be the Parksville and District Credit Union Trophy for the best decorated table centre and the Parksville and District Garden Club prize for the most points in the vegetable and/or fruit section.

Judges will be Mrs. E. W. Carey and Mrs. Ena McCabe, both of Victoria Horticultral Society. C. W. R. Attwood is show secretary.

Official opening will be at 2:30 p.m. Tea will be served during the afternoon and a sale of garden produce will be held at the close of the show at 8 p.m.

NORTH COWICHAN — Council Wednesday afternoon adopted the recommendation from the engineer and the mechanical supervisor of the city of Victoria who suggested the best suitable machine for the North Cowichan public works would be a rubber-tired hydraulicly operated loader. The loader will cost more than $20,000 and the municipality's equipment bylaw will be changed making it possible to acquire the machinery.

★ ★ ★

It was noted the equipment study, carried out by the Victoria civic officials, has been without charge.

A $25 donation to Canadian soap box champion Robert Karr of Chemainus was unanimously confirmed by members of the council.

A letter of appreciation will be sent to the North Cowichan South End Volunteer Fire Department for its efforts in providing free swimming lessons at the department's pool for a large number of youngsters.

The Norcross Road widening and establishment bylaw, 1963, was adopted and the Linden Lane expropriation bylaw, 1963, was given the first three readings.

★ ★ ★

CAMPBELL RIVER — Radnar Hansen, chief steward on the Trollegan paper boat at Elk Falls, was fined $100 in court here for being in possession of contraband—six bottles of gin and a quantity of cigarettes.

The boat was also seized and a fine of $50 imposed against it.

★ ★ ★

DUNCAN — Former Cowichan Senior secondary school student, Nollaig MacKenzie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murdo MacKenzie, Duncan, will attend Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y., after he received a $2,000 fellowship. He graduated last spring in philosophy from UBC and he is working towards his Ph.D. degree.

★ ★ ★

FRIDAY HARBOR — All plans are complete for the annual San Juan Rendezous, with a whole-family program here from 10 a.m. Saturday until 2 a.m. the following morning.

Day's events include a youngsters' fishing derby, salmon barbecue, log-rolling and canoe jousting, crowning of the Rendezous Queen, and dances in the evening for youngsters from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. and for adults from 10 p.m. on.

★ ★ ★

NANAIMO — With the mercury in the high seventies Thursday and predicted to continue climbing over the weekend a huge turnout is expected for the mass swim to Protection Island Sunday.

Around The Island

Cash prizes will go to the winners and every finisher will receive a silver medallion. Frank Ney reports registration is lively.

★ ★ ★

DUNCAN — Duncan Kiwanians Bob Corney, Sam Keeble and Dr. O. E. Qualley will represent their club at the Pacific Northwest District Kiwanis international convention at Anchorage, Alaska, from Aug. 18 to 20.

★ ★ ★

NORTH COWICHAN — Building permits issued during July represented a total of $134,700 compared with $640,181 during the same period last year, according to the monthly report from the municipal office. Seven-month totals were; 1962, $1,626,189, and 1963, $1,505,376.

★ ★ ★

DUNCAN — John Noyse, Cowichan Bay, pleaded not guilty in police court to assault by threatening Kelly Williams of Cherry Point with a rifle. He was convicted and fined $25.

★ ★ ★

CHEMAINUS — The ladies' division of Mount Brenton Golf Club played its CLGU round last week, with Mrs. June Cook the winner of the low gross on the second nine. The low net was tied by Mrs. Jean Foulds and Mrs. Sophie Harwood, Mrs. Foulds winning on the last six holes.

The Tuesday two-ball foursome held July 30 was won by Bob Jansch and Mrs. Jenny Boden, with Garry Urton and Mrs. Dot Coupland second.

DUNCAN — This year's Cowichan Valley Summer School — with pupils from Salt Spring Island, Cowichan, Lake Cowichan and Ladysmith school districts — will end today.

Summer school director A. D. Carlson said it was successful. "The summer school is saving taxpayers money while paying its way and students are learning the importance of having to get organized."

★ ★ ★

DUNCAN — Police court; Miss M. M. Dibb, Cobble Hill, leaving car without locking ignition, $10; Robert Clarkson, Jr., Courtenay, careless driving, $22; Alexander G. McClure, Victoria, consuming liquor in public place, $50; Aimes Moulin, Duncan, speeding, $15; R. D. Henderson, Duncan, driving contrary to a restriction on license, $17; Donald Walkey, Duncan, failing to stop at flashing red traffic light, $12.

Fire Risk Near Peak

NANAIMO — Fire hazard level in the Nanaimo area is expected to reach the high level this weekend if the hot weather continues.

At present the level is moderate and no serious fires have been reported in the area this season. Logging operations continued as usual Thursday with temperatures in the high seventies. The temperature is expected to be in the eighties today.

Fish, Game Members Look Ahead

PARKSVILLE — Improvements at the club rifle range just south of Parksville are being carried out by members of Parksville Fish & Game Association in preparation for the fall season.

Some buildings acquired by the club and moved to the range are being converted into a meeting room and shelter.

A junior firearms safety course will again be conducted by Henry Estlin in September.

The club's search and rescue squad under Bob Moore plans some field trips to familiarize the men with areas in which they may have to make a search during the hunting season.

Plans have been completed for the annual Salmon Derby and salmon barbecue, Aug. 24 and 25.

'Moderate,' Says Minnesotans

Park Wonderful, Sky Blue

Only Spoiled Victorians Think It's Hot

By HARVEY SHEPHERD

Some spoiled Victorians may have ballyached about Thursday's heat, but tourists from places where it really gets hot were generaly enthusiastic about it or, at worst, philosophical.

Thursday, the hottest day so far this year, a not untypical remark came from Linwood Beck of Fergus Falls, Minn., one of a number of tourists a reporter interviewed on a ramble around the Causeway and through Beacon Hill Park:

"I guess this is a real heat wave for you," Mr. Beck said. "But it's real moderate for us. We just hit beautiful weather here." He said it gets a lot hotter—and, at other times, mighty cold—in Minnesota.

★ ★ ★

He said he and his wife and two sons, 14 and 3, crossed into Canada at Winnipeg 10 days before and had not met any "real hot weather" while they motored across Canada.

Another one who said it gets a lot hotter where he comes from was Joseph Berthot of Niagara Falls, N.Y. "This is really wonderful, I'm telling you," he said as he lounged in Beacon Hill Park. "I think this is the most beautiful park we've ever been in."

If some visitors were happy it was not too hot, a smaller group was happy about how hot it was. Among them was the visitor from farthest away interviewed, Capt. Sven Tahler of Sweden.

★ ★ ★

"This is hot for us," he said as he walked through the park with his wife. "It is like one of the most wonderful days in Sweden."

Capt. Tahler is not, strictly speaking, a tourist. His vessel, the Migolina, is at the west coast taking on a cargo of lumber for Japan.

A young tourist, Miss Nancy Davis of Oklahoma and Washington, D.C., in Victoria on a brief side-trip in her trans-continental tour, was so impressed by the weather she booked a room at the Empress although she hadn't planned to stay.

"It's so tremendous to get blue sky," said the National Geographic Society employee who has recently been in overcast San Francisco on her vacation trip. She said Thursday's Victoria weather was "refreshing" after the heat and humidity of Washington, D.C.

★ ★ ★

It wasn't quite as cool as one tourist would have liked it.

"We came to the west coast to get cooled off," said H. L. Kendrick of Farmington, New Mexico, who was here with his wife and two daughters, 7 and 10.

He admitted Thursday's weather was some relief from New Mexico, where the temperature ranges between 37 below and 105 above during the year.

Two Calgary people, found relaxing in the shade in different parts of the park, found the weather just like home. C. P. Roth said today in Victoria felt like an 80 or 85-degree day in Calgary, when the radio said the actual temperature was considerably lower.

★ ★ ★

But another Canadian found the weather quite a relief.

"You couldn't wear this black sport coat in Toronto," said Toronto toy company executive Jeffrey Smith, on a day's pleasure trip to Victoria while in Vancouver on business.

Mopping perspiration and grime from his face after the second bush fire on Peacock Hill was extinguished yesterday is Saanich fireman William Marcellus.—(Jack Fry)

Gabriola Complaint

Tax Battle Showdown Demanded

NANAIMO—R. E. Nicoll has called for a showdown with the provincial government on the question of taxes.

Mr. Nicoll recently claimed that he had been unfairly treated by the assessment appeal board when he appealed the assessment of a section of his property on Gabriola Island. The appeal was refused.

Following Mr. Nicoll's protests, provincial deputy minister of finance G. F. Bryson said in Vancouver that if Mr. Nicoll were to lodge a legitimate complaint with the tax department he would investigate.

FAIR SUCCESS

"That's just what I wanted him to say," said the man who has been battling the tax assessment system, with fair success, for several years. "I have just lodged my complaint and now the government must investigate. And by investigate I mean investigate that appeal board."

In his letter addressed to J. O. Moore, surevyor of taxes in Victoria, Mr. Nicoll says:

"During the hearing it was quite apparent that the board was critical of me for not being familiar with legal presentation and procedure—in fact, it seemed as if I was being condemned primarily because I, as a taxpayer and a layman, had the courage to appeal.

PRE-JUDGED

"Further, it would appear that I had been pre-judged and that the hearing was more of an exercise of the legal department rather than an investigation into salient facts of assessments."

Mr. Nicoll went on to say that he feels it will be a black day for the taxpayers of this province if nothing is done to halt "such action by the appeal board."

MAIN POINTS —

Mr. Nicoll said he outlined two main points in his protest to Mr. Moore. They were:

● "With my hearing only partially completed, the chairman of the board discontinued the hearing and ruled that it must be completed by mail. You must agree with me that it is very unusual for an open assessment hearing to be converted to secret mail proceedings—divorced from both press and radio.

● "The appeal board made its decision and submitted its ruling before I had the opportunity of completing my appeal—in fact my final rebuttal was never submitted."

Mr. Nicoll said that when he first complained about the board Mr. Bryson said there had never been any complaints directed at the board before.

"That's because people accepted the way it operates," said Mr. Nicoll, "but I will not accept it. The board treated me as though I was being downright impudent by appealing. I have proved assessors wrong before and I want a fair hearing on this case."

In his protest letter to Mr. Moore, Mr. Nicoll mentions Mr. Bryson's promise of an enquiry if a protest is lodged.

Traffic Death Accidental

COURTENAY—A verdict of accidental death with no blame attached to any living person was returned by a coroner's jury here Thursday, enquiring into the traffic death of nine-year-old Elizabeth Leslie Gill who was knocked down Aug. 5 by a car driven by Peter H. Lloyd.

Ernie Emery, past zone chairman, charter member and past president, will discuss Lions Education at a meeting of the Victoria Lions Club at noon today at the Empress.

Can't Get Away from It

It's Like Living In Smoke Stack

By TED SHACKLEFORD

A Victoria woman who sold her family home on Gorge Road and moved to the Island Highway to escape the smoke and fly ash nuisance has found herself in an area with still more air pollution.

"I moved from the Gorge Road. I thought I was getting away from the cinders, but this is worse than Gorge Road ever was," Mrs. Norma Pendray Wilson, 180 Island Highway said last night.

"This is like living in a smoke stack."

Island Highway residents in the section north of the Craigflower Bridge to the Four Mile House, agreed with Mrs. Pendray vehemently.

They told of problems and instances which backed their claims.

Mrs. Doris Beeston, 145 Island Highway, leaned on the balustrade of her front steps while commenting, then stopped as she realized what she had done and showed the Colonist reporter her forearm.

Smeared with Ash

It was liberally smeared with fly ash from wrist to elbow—fly ash which had fallen on the balustrade.

Most of the comments came from housewives but Tom Ord, owner of the Greenwood Motel, had a typically male comment.

"It's bloody awful," he said.

When the Colonist checked the area there was a strong smell of burning wood and a distinct blue smoke haze. Residents complained that the smoke was so bad yesterday morning they couldn't see 100 yards.

"Disgusting," "horrible," "terrible" and "dreadful" were the most commonly used adjectives to describe the smoke and fly ash nuisance caused by wood burners from the mill on Songhees Indian Reserve nearby.

The area is outside municipal boundaries and is administered by the provincial government as unorganized territory. Some residents said they had complained about the nuisance; others talked about starting a petition.

Problem Worse

Mrs. Wilson: "I bought this in the winter when the prevailing winds were different. I have two lots on Kingham Place where I planned to build a new house but the problem there is much worse than it is here. I don't know if I will build now or not. It's a rare day that it isn't like this. I was in Vancouver Wednesday and they hadn't a bit of smoke, it was beautifully clean."

Mr. Ord: "There's been more smoke and fly ash this summer than normal. Right in the cabins this morning I found fly ash all over everything. In the winter when there's a low cloud ceiling and a southeast wind blowing you can't hang any sheets outside—they get just black. It's just in the last five years that we've noticed the fly ash."

Mrs. S. W. Turner, 191 Island Highway: "It's terrible. It's disgusting—you can see how it is. If there's any washing on the line when this starts you have it get it in in a hurry."

It's Been Awful

Mrs. Christina Ross, 160 Island Highway: "We don't like it at all—it's dreadful. I was just saying today I swept such a lot off the front verandah and the chairs and everything. It's awful with the laundry. If it rains you get streaks. Really, it's been awful the last few days."

Mrs. Charles MacFarlane, 147 Island Highway: "Horrible! We find it rather suffocating—it's hard to breathe. And it's terrible on laundry—I have to rewash it sometimes. There's quite a bit of fly ash—if we park the car outside overnight it is just covered in the morning. In the winter it's clear, it's just bad at this time of the year but each year it seems to get worse."

Mrs. Beeston: "It's disgusting. I think they should be made to do something about it. We can't sit on our lawn except for the weekends when they don't burn. We look forward to our weekends here. We can't have windows in the house open. We've been here 30 years and it's getting worse each year. This morning we couldn't see the railway tracks (about 100 to 150 yards away)."

All Over Clothes

Mrs. Peter Matthews, 141 Island Highway: "Terrible, it gets all over the clothes. This smoke if full of ash and you can't leave clean clothes or a clean car in it. It comes and goes in spurts. It's bad today. Sometimes you can hardly see next door. There was talk about putting up a petition but I don't know how far it has gone."

Mrs. Ellie Spiers, 2546 Garden, is a Red Cross nurse working at 139 Island Highway: "It bothers my asthma. This morning it was really bad. It was just thick about here, I opened the door and the house got full of smoke. I thought there was a fire here when I looked outside."

Lawrence Wade, 115 Island Highway: "It was worse today than its ever been. It was very, very bad. It made it very hard to breathe. We get a lot of fly ash over here and in an hour the car is covered. This happens about 90 per cent of the time. People have to work, we understand that, but we don't understand why they have to burn all this, often in the middle of the day. There must be some other way."

Keel Laying Set Sept. 5

Keel of the Pacific Naval Laboratory research vessel will be laid Sept. 5 at Yarrows Ltd., the navy announced Wednesday.

The 215-foot ship will be completed late in 1964 at a cost of $4,518,493.

Artist Shows Skills

DUNCAN — Indian artist George Clutesi of Alberni, whose work made a deep impression on Emily Carr and who was awarded a Canada Council grant to teach arts and dancing to his people, will display his painting skill at the Cowichan Exhibition, Saturday, Sept. 7.

Mr. Clutesi's paintings have been bought by UBC and the B.C. government.

Salt Spring Island

Pirate Days

Sky-Divers to Sheep

GANGES — Pirates, sky-divers, sheep-shearers—these will be among the varied fare offered residents and visitors during Salt Spring Island's Pirate Days, today, Saturday and Sunday.

Longest single event is also the first: a salmon derby in which fishermen will try their skill from dawn today until Sunday at 5 p.m.

Today will also see a sheep dog display at 1 p.m. here, and the day's highlight will come at 1 p.m. when Victoria Sky-Diving Club members will plummet from planes into Ganges Harbor.

The day will also see a smorgasbord at 6 p.m. at Ganges United Church, and Sharyn Reynolds will be crowned Pirate Queen and Betsy Quesnel her princess in the evening. Dancing will follow.

Saturday's program includes an 18-hole golf tournament, archery and rifle shoots and Indian canoe races.

At Fulford Hall grounds at 4 p.m. there will be sheep shearing contests, sheep dog displays, a lamb-diapering contest, farmer's market, beef barbecue and clambake, with bingo games and a dance in the evening.

Sunday will offer scuba diving and a spear-fishing contest from 10:30 a.m. in Vesuvius Bay, and boat-racing and water skiing from 1 p.m. in Welbury Bay.

Cowichan Police Rushed

NORTH COWICHAN —Following a discussion at Wednesday's council meeting on increased police work in the municipality, Reeve Donald Morton will ask Insp. G. M. MacKay of the Victoria RCMP sub-division for recommendations to meet the challenge.

At present North Cowichan pays for one constable at the Duncan station, and for four at Chemainus.

Insp. MacKay referred to the industry in the Crofton area with a new paper mill under construction. He said about 140 men will be employed when the mill starts operating in 1963.

The inspector said complaints to the police increased by 36 per cent from January to June this year compared with the same period last year. In the Crofton area it increased by 72 per cent.

SAME PERIODS

For the same periods this year in North Cowichan increases were: Prosecutions, 121 per cent, and investigational files, 62 per cent.

Council agreed with Reeve Morton who said the municipality should give serious consideration to the problem. "It is not anyone's fancy that the work increased, and one man can only do so much in a given time," he said.

Council learned Cowichan Hospital Board chairman Claude Green had withdrawn his resignation from the planning committee of the new Cowichan hospital.

In a letter to North Cowichan the city of Duncan emphasized flooding in the southern part of the municipality was not caused by diking of the Cowichan River bank the city carried out within city limits, and the city will continue to protect its citizens if necessary.

Crofton ratepayers will be advised their request to have Barnes Road blacktopped will more than likely be budgeted next year.

HALF AREA

People in the Saltair district will be told Chemainus firemen are willing to have half of the Saltair area included in their fire protection district.

Reeve Morton said the extended limit would be at the Lagoon and newcomers would be charged the same mill rate as Chemainus residents—about three mills.

The reeve said the Ladysmith firemen are prepared to protect the other part of the Saltair area.

Council decided to spend $2,700 on a primary community development plan. A senior traffic official from the highways department in Nanaimo advised the council he sees no necessity of reducing the present 60-miles-an-hour speed limit.

Parksville

October Deadline In Sewer Hookup

PARKSVILLE — Residents of Parksville are being reminded by the village commission that Oct. 31 is the deadline date for connections to the sewer line at the nominal rate of $85.

The sewerage system is well advanced, with only general cleaning up and testing of lines and completion of the laying of the outfall pipe in the sea now remaining to be done.

Farmer Construction Co., Victoria, has the contract for the project.

At the regular meeting of the council it was decided to arrange for drivers' examinations to be held in the Community hall dining room in future instead of at the municipal office. Reservations for the tests will still be made at the municipal office as in the past.

Residents considering subdividing property are advised to submit a tentative plan to council before proceeding with a survey in order to avoid needless delay and expense.

Council is investigating the possibility of consolidating all insurance policies under one agency for an economical rate.

It was announced that quite a number of complimentary remarks have been made by visitors regarding the Community Park following a clean-up and improvement program, undertaken this spring.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

Half the Italian players who recently eked out a narrow World Championship victory over the U.S. rely on the complicated Roman system. This embodies the canape principle, in which short suits are bid ahead of long suits. Today's deal shows an exaggerated example of canape at work.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1♣	Pass	2♢
Pass	3♣	Pass	3♢
Pass	3♡	Dbl.	3♠
Pass	4♠	All Pass

Opening lead: Heart ace

In the Roman system used by North-South, one club is convenient. A player with a long club suit and a normal opening bid is required to bid a short suit, if necessary, a three-card suit. South was forced to bid his spades, no doubt with enthusiasm.

If the vulnerability had been reversed, West might have overcalled with two hearts, a bid which would have obstructive value. But at this score an overcall would have been unsafe.

If North had chanced three no trump instead of bidding three spades, he would probably have scored a game. It might be beaten by a heart lead from East and a high spade return from West, but even then, in view of West's failure to overcall, North would probably decide to play East for the spade ace and would hold up the king to block the suit.

West led the heart ace and a second heart. Declarer played king and another diamond, but West trumped and led the heart jack. Declarer ruffed and had to play ace and another club. East won and got out with his last club. South won and led a spade, on which West dropped the eight. Declarer ducked in dummy, endplaying East, and was down two. It would have been down three if West had played a higher spade than the eight.

In the other room, the U.S. played at three clubs, just made, and gained 5 IMPs.

RUSSIA TODAY

Who Cuts Whose Throat?

By ALAN HARVEY
Fourth of a Series

MOSCOW (CP)—After all the heavy thinking, one word may explain old Mother Russia.

For years, experts sought to solve the Soviet puzzle. Winston Churchill, in a classic phrase, spoke of a riddle, a mystery, an enigma.

And yet some offer a one-word solution—under-development.

The idea is that this leviathan among lands, despite striking progress in the physical realm, is still politically primitive, still back with the underdeveloped two-thirds of mankind.

Theorists draw a distinction between Western rule of law and the autocratic, absolutist traditions of the regulated society that is Russia.

After centuries in which freedom, in Tennyson's words, slowly broadened down from precedent to precedent, Europe and North America evolved a sense of compromise, a respect for human values and individual dignity, a tradition of free speaking and tolerated dissent, an instinct for gradual rather than violent development.

Night of Czars

While this was taking place, Rusia endured centuries of isolation, cut off from the West. Under the Tartars and Mongols and during the long night of the Czars, she missed the liberalizing influences of the Reformation and the Renaissance.

For more than two centuries starting in 1240, Russia was a series of principalities within the Asiatic orbit of Genghis Khan, Tamerlane and their descendants. The writer Gorky claimed that physical violence, cruelty and autocracy were a Russian legacy of the Asiatic invasions.

Another event that helped shape modern attitudes was the religious split that brought Russia under the Greek Orthodox Church, with its Byzantine traditions, while the West went the way of Rome.

Rigid, Corrupt

"Blame Byzantium if today one-fourth of the territory of the Soviet Union is closed to outsiders," said a Western diplomat, attributing much of present-day secretiveness to the Orthodox mystique. Historians say the political despotism centred in Constantinople was sustained by a rigid and often corrupt hierarchy.

Russia introduced feudalism about the time the West was getting rid of it. Its 20,000,000 serfs were liberated only in 1861 and the nation was without a professional Bar until 1872.

The theory, in short, is that history holds the key to human conduct.

"Russia is trying to telescope the time machine," a Russian-speaking analyst said. "She is trying to do in years what we did in centuries.

"She follows a zig-zag course, oscillating between relaxation

Kennedy Baby Dies

BOSTON (UPI) — Patrick Bouvier Kennedy, two-day-old son of the President and the First Lady, lost his brief struggle for life early today and died at 4:04 a.m. EDT (1:04 PDT) of a respiratory ailment.

When the end came, President Kennedy, who had been staying at the Boston Children's Hospital medical centre for the night to be near his ailing son, was at the side of the giant pressure chamber in which the lad had been placed in a last-ditch effort to keep him alive.

White House Secretary Pierre Salinger somberly announced the tragic end to the youngster's fight for life and said the President would fly to Otis Air Force Base, Mass., later in the morning to join his wife who is in the hospital there.

NOT NOTIFIED

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy had not been notified of the death as of the time of Salinger's announcement.

The First Lady has been in excellent condition at the base hospital since the birth, 5½ weeks premature, of her son Wednesday. But the infant had struggled all the way.

BREATH PROBLEM

Within hours of his birth, the child had to be taken by ambulance to the Boston hospital, where facilities were available to handle his breathing problem, known technically as idiopathic respiratory distress syndrome.

Thursday morning, doctors had noted "some encouragement" but Mr. Kennedy was summoned back from Cape Cod, where he had been visiting his wife, in the early afternoon because of a decline in the infant's condition. The child's breathing improved after he was placed in the huge pressure chamber which provided needed oxygen for his tiny lungs.

FOURTH FLOOR

But at 2:00 a.m. EDT, the President was awakened in his fourth floor room at the hospital and advised to go to the chamber on the ground level.

About 20 minutes later, he was joined by his brother, Attorney-General Robert F. Kennedy, and his long-time associate and White House receptionist, David Powers, who had been staying at the President's downtown hotel and had been called to the hospital to be with Mr. Kennedy.

The three were there when the child, still within the chamber, drew its final breath.

Beaten-Up Boy Dies In Duncan

A 14-year-old Duncan boy died in hospital last night after being beaten up by two youths five miles outside of Duncan.

The RCMP said Hugh Nesbitt, son of Mrs. Joseph Nesbitt, was found lying on the road at the intersection of Genoa Bay and Maple Bay Roads.

They said according to witnesses the youths jumped from a car, beat the boy, then escaped in the car. Police later questioned two youths in connection with the slaying.

Finn Freezes 'Hot Line'

HELSINKI (Reuters) — A Finnish construction worker drove an excavator through the Moscow-Washington "hot line" Thursday and broke telecommunications.

The worker was clearing ground for a new highway when the cable was cut. The line was repaired in four hours.

It is expected to be ready for service as an emergency link between Moscow and Washington next month.

British Bandits Get Richest Mail Haul

* * *

CHEDDINGTON, England (CP) — A gang of masked bandits ambushed a royal mail train Thursday and staged what was believed to be the world's greatest train robbery.

The pre-dawn holdup, in a lonely stretch of the English countryside, gave them a haul which one official said could amount to £1,000,000 ($3,000,000) in cash and registered mail.

Police and postal authorities first estimated the gang at 30 men. Later a police spokesman said it probably numbered about 15.

BRITAIN JOLTED

The brash and brazen robbery jolted Britain with its massive organization and split - second timing.

Postmaster-General Reginald Bevins cut short his vacation and immediately offered a £10,000 ($30,000) reward for information leading to the gang's arrest.

FAKE SIGNAL

Police with tracker dogs scoured the countryside and threw up roadblocks around Cheddington, 40 miles northwest of London, where the gang struck after faking a red signal to stop the 12-car diesel-powered train at a rural junction.

Of comparable robberies, the biggest cash haul in North America came from the robbery of a United States mail truck last Aug. 14 outside Plymouth, Mass. That loot totalled $1,551,277.

CARRIED ONLY MAIL

The train, en route from Glasgow to London, carried only mail and a staff of 75 postal workers. They were sorting through letters and parcels as the express stopped at the isolated Sears crossing just after 3 a.m.

Fireman David Whitby clambered down from the locomotive to investigate the red signal. Five men, masked by stock-

Pearls from Peasant of Kremlin

We Both Have Our Woes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "God has given you Adenauer and God has given us some foolish allies too."

The speaker was Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev presenting his views on allied troubles that beset both the United States and Russia. It was one of a series of quotes attributed to Krushchev by Sen. Hubert Humphrey, just returned from the Moscow signing of the nuclear test ban treaty.

The Kremlin leader was discussing West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer by name and the Chinese Communists by implication.

* * *

"It is like a porcupine that will continue to raise its needles."

This was Khrushchev commenting on the unsolved question of a divided Germany. The Kremlin leader, according to Humphrey, said that a one-sided settlement on terms of either the East or West "would be foolish solutions and would lead to war." He did not mention Berlin specifically.

Humphrey said the Soviet leader also used the simile of a mother trying to teach a child to walk in referring to the possible easing of East-West tensions:

"She doesn't push or hurry him — she permits him to walk in his own time."

* * *

"Some who oppose it should be subjected to psychiatric treatment because they are injuring our health."

This was Khrushchev on the nuclear treaty which he said "is good." According to Humphrey, Khrushchev commented: "People like it and people follow the doctor's prescription . . . to an ailing society."

* * *

And finally, Khrushchev on the prospect of continued ideological differences between Soviet Communism and the free world democratic concept:

"If it is destined that our coffins lie together, they will still take different positions."

Bonner to Make Major Statement

BCE CASE BREAK DUE

A major break in the B.C. Electric impasse is only hours away.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said last night he expects to make a major announcement in connection with the case today.

He refused to elaborate but told a reporter "there'll be lots for you to write about."

He said the development stemmed "from a new direction" and indicated it resulted from behind-the-scenes activity which has been going on for the past two days.

"I can't say anything more at the present time," he said.

Immediate speculation was that the government and the B.C. Power Corporation had arrived at a formula for additional compensation which was acceptable to both parties.

If this is the case, it means government officials and spokesmen for the power company have resolved their differences over the question of BCE earnings since the date of appropriation in 1961.

$193,000,000

In his judgment handed down last week, Chief Justice Sherwood Lett placed a value of $193,000,000 on B.C.E.

British Columbia paid $173,000,000 under the terms of its expropriation legislation.

Following delivery of the judgment Premier Bennett said he was prepared to accept the court's figure.

B.C. Power officials said they would accept it only as the basis for negotiations and claimed it represented the August 1961 value and not current value.

Lett Judgment

Just Where Does B.C. Stand Now?

By TERRY HAMMOND
Colonist Legislative Reporter

Where does B.C. stand 10 days after Chief Justice Sherwood Lett shook the foundations of provincial utility legislation and crumbled the government's massive electrical edifice?

The biggest headaches which the Lett judgment impose on the provincial government are still sorely throbbing.

They come under two general headings: constitutional and practical.

The practical problems are these:

- B.C. no longer owns the B.C. Electric which it expropriated in August, 1961, at an eventual cost of $172,000,000.
- The B.C. Hydro and Power Authority which was created to meld the expropriated BCE with the old B.C. Power Commission does not legally exist.

Equally serious, if somewhat less urgent, is this constitutional problem:

- B.C., as well as other provinces, may no longer have the right to impose any form of regulation upon provincial companies which are subsidiaries of federal companies or provincial companies with extra-provincial activities.

Projected to the extreme, the Lett judgment may mean that B.C. could not force a department store owned by a federal government to collect and remit the provincial sales tax.

It may mean that the Public Utilities Commission no longer has the authority to regulate transportation rates within B.C. of a company which moves shipments to Alberta or the U.S.

First Look

At first glance, during the days immediately after the release of the judgment, its implications left government officials shocked.

Today, after more careful study, they are appalled.

In an effort to bring some order out of the chaos in which the practical questions have left the province, Premier Bennett has launched overtures towards reaching a financial settlement with B.C. Power.

If a settlement can be reached, this will solve the problem of ownership.

Wants Cut

The premier has agreed to accept Chief Justice Lett's evaluation of BCE—$192,828,125 or an increase of about $21,000,000 over what B.C. paid—but B.C. Power says that was the August 1961 value and it wants a cut at the subsequent earnings as well.

Mutual agreement on price, if it comes, does not solve the very real problem of the legal status of B.C. Hydro.

The chief justice held the Hydro Act to be invalid because it lacked substance subsequent to his findings in connection with the expropriation legislation on which it was based.

This can be remedied by new legislation which would re-create Hydro without alluding to the ultra vires acts.

Illegal Entity

The need to reconstitute Hydro in an acceptable manner would seem to be pressing. Already, as a result of it being branded an illegal entity, a Peace power project contractor has slowed down equipment purchases and a chartered bank briefly suspended trading in its securities.

B.C. Hydro is the agent named by B.C. and Ottawa to fulfill Canada's obligations under the Columbia Treaty with the U.S. and it would appear desirable to clear up its status before the province embarks on negotiations with Washington over the price to be paid for downstream benefit power.
